STUDENTS KEEP POLITICS HOT

'Municipal' Offices Will Be Conferred At High Schools

Politics are prevailing in the two local high schools in preparation for the student government day election, tomorrow. The students will go to the polls to elect a mayor, commissioner of finance and utilities, commissioner of streets and parks, city judge, and city marshal. Nominations have been selected and ballots printed for the polls to be run in regular fashion by commissioners selected by the schools.

Candidates and placard and sign-carrying students were seen everywhere last week around the schools trying to solicit the student body's vote. After the vacancies for various offices have been filled, the students will actually fill the posts Tuesday, May 6, coping with the various problems of operation of a democratic municipality.

Candidates from the Ouachita Parish High School are as follows: Mayor—Bob Curry and Bill Funderburk; commissioner of streets and parks—Dwight Grubbs and Jerry Sikes; commissioner of finance and utilities—Jake Coan and Spencer Edmonson; for city judge—Margaret Hunter and Billy Nelson; city marshal—Flora Elchenham and Pat Peterson.

Neville's candidates are: Mayor—Rayna Bowen, Will Johnson and Jimmy Rivers; commissioner of finance and utilities—Wynne Ashcraft, Bobby Courtney, and Mary Warner; commissioners of streets and parks—Johnnie Clay, Dorothy Coates, Diana Noel and Jimmy Upp; city judge—Johnny Crump, Anna Mary Johnson and Barbara Kelso; city marshal, Betty Samford, Fred Brooks, David Corbin, Tommy Jane Lawhead, Joan MacDonald and Lloydelle Walters.

All citizens of the Twin Cities are urged by the Junior Chamber of Commerce to support this program and to add realism to the project, thereby enhancing the training of future citizens of this community and state.

GOVT. REPORTS EXTENSION OF ENLISTMENTS

125,000 Will Be Affected By Ruling

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—A nine-month extension of the enlistments of many armed forces volunteers whose regular terms were due to expire in the year starting July 1 was announced today by the Defense Department, which said about 125,000 are affected.

The extension applies to volunteers in the army, air force, navy and marines, but it does not cover selective service registrants who enlisted for 24 months instead of waiting for induction. Nor does it cover personnel whose enlistments have been previously extended.

The department said the extension was provided in an executive order which President Truman signed two days ago.

It said in a statement that the step was taken reluctantly and "that not all affected men would be required to serve the full period of extension and that no man would be kept on duty any longer than absolutely necessary."

The 125,000 affected are a small segment of the total armed forces strength of some 3,700,000 M. The Defense Department gave this estimated breakdown: army 60,500,

Man Dies In Effort To Save Doomed Boy From Fire Here

HOTEL FIRE ENDS IN DEATH

Pictured above is the charred wreckage of a two-story hotel, the Osborn Hotel, which was gutted Friday night in a flash fire that swept through the hotel and a service station and caused the deaths of two people and injuries to two more.

John Osborn Braves Raging Blaze In W. Monroe Hotel In Heroic Attempt To Rescue Herschel Costin; Two Other People Sustain Injuries

By PAUL JASPER

A heroic attempt on the part of a veteran of World War II to save the life of a four-year-old boy trapped in a blazing two-story hotel in West Monroe resulted at midnight Friday in the deaths of both the veteran and the boy. Two other people were injured during the fire.

Killed were four-year-old Herschel Andrew Costin and John W. Osborn, 40, who were both in the hotel when the fire broke out. Dr. J. T. French, Ouachita parish coroner, attributed death to burns received in the fire.

Injured and in the St. Francis Sanatorium last night were the mother and sister of the young Costin boy. An attending physician reported that Mrs. Arnold Costin, 22, and Dorothy Costin, 8-month-old, were both in a good condition yesterday. He stated that both had suffered first and second degree burns on the face, left arm and shoulder, and the hands.

All of the dead and injured were residents of the Osborn Hotel, located at 1002 Jonesboro road and the property of the Brown Paper Mill Company. The blaze apparently originated in the hotel and spread quickly to a nearby service station which was completely destroyed also.

No estimate of the damage could be given yesterday since an account of the destroyed property was not available, according to Garland May, state fire marshal for Ouachita parish.

He stated that the fire apparently originated in a two-room apartment on the west side of the building which was occupied by Mrs. Costin. Actual cause of the fire was not known yesterday, but May stated that it appeared to be accidental.

Osborn's attempt to rescue the child, according to witnesses, came after everyone in the building had reached safety. A witness to the accident, who said that he did not wish to be identified, stated that he had seen a woman leave the building carrying one child in her arms and leading another by the hand.

The walking child, said the man, suddenly broke away from the woman and ran back into the building, followed shortly by a man. These were later identified as Osborn and the Costin boy, who never reappeared from the hotel.

Another witness, Ray Lenard, of Winnfield, who was visiting in his mother's home a short distance from the hotel, stated that he saw a blaze on the front porch of the hotel and rushed over to arouse the occupants.

The intense heat, said Lenard, kept him from entering the building but he threw bricks through the window and succeeded in waking the occupants up. Approximately six minutes after he had first seen the blaze, said Lenard, the building seemed to explode.

He added that he had heard the man and child screaming but that he had not seen them.

Five fire trucks from the Monroe fire department arrived at the scene.

POW Parleys Are Resumed

MUNSAN, Korea, Sunday, April 20 (AP)—The critical issues of supervising a Korean truce return to the staff officer level today for informal talks after more than two weeks of "do nothing" sessions.

Other staff officers continued their executive sessions in prisoner exchange in today's parallel negotiations at Panmunjom at 11 a. m., 10 p. m., EST, Saturday.

The prisoner exchange discussions resumed Saturday after a two-week recess in which staff officers sought means of breaking the deadlock over the Allies demand for voluntary repatriation of POWs.

Whether the long recess had been productive was not indicated after Saturday's 31-minute meeting.

In an adjoining conference tent, Allied and Communist sub-delegates decided to return to staff officers the problem of enforcing

BELIEVE DELHI MAN DROWNED

DELHI, April 19.—(Special)—Monroe firemen were dragging Bayou Macon, six miles south of here, today for the body of a 25-year-old man believed to have drowned in the bayou early this morning.

Willie Gueho, 25, of near Delhi, was reportedly drowned after a boat in which he and a companion were riding turned over at 1 a. m. today. The companion swam to shore, but Gueho did not make it.

Audrey McKinney, city marshal of Delhi, reported yesterday that Gueho and a companion, whom the marshal identified only as Bearden, had been fishing on the river when the accident occurred.

Bearden, in his account of the incident to the marshal, explained that Gueho could not swim and was wearing heavy boots at the time of the accident. He told the marshal that the boat overturned while Gueho was walking from one end of the boat to the other.

The accident occurred in mid-stream, said the marshal, and Gueho was unable to make the shore. "Bearden went down twice before he got in," the marshal said.

MAJOR PHASE OF TELEPHONE STRIKE ENDS

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—The major phase of a nationwide telephone workers strike ended today with a compromise wage agreement. Negotiators strove to end two smaller disputes.

Agreement was reached between the Western Electric Co., manufacturing affiliate of the Bell Telephone System, and 10,000 equipment installers of the CIO Communications Workers of America.

Negotiators were in session here to end a strike of 6,000 Western Electric salesmen, distributors and warehousemen, members of the same union.

The union estimated 8,500 CWA members were on strike separately against the Bell affiliate in Northern California and Nevada.

Another communications strike, a walkout of 31,000 AFL Commercial Telegraphers Union members seeking higher wages from the Western Union Telegraph Company, entered its 17th day with no settlement in sight.

The 12 days of telephone worker strikes involved 43 states and the District of Columbia and hampered long distance telephone service. A number of non-striking operators respected picket lines. Their duties were taken over by supervisory personnel.

The new pact between Western Electric and the installers pro-

PRIMARIES SLATED FOR N. Y. AND PA.

An even dozen states hold primaries or political conventions in the busy week ahead, with the spotlight on New York and Pennsylvania whose Tuesday popular primaries will elect 200 delegates of both parties to the July national conventions.

This is the picture today (Sunday) in the two hot-spot states:

Pennsylvania—has 70 votes at each party's nominating convention; both have picked 10-vote-at-large delegations, each will fill the remaining 60 posts April 22. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harold E. Stassen are on the GOP ballot; Sen. Taft of Ohio is not, although write-in votes are expected. No Democrats are entered.

Taft backers say the outcome in Pennsylvania means nothing, either now or later, and low-rated the primary. On the other hand, Eisenhower supporters insist the outcome is of prime importance.

New York—has a 56-vote delegation for the Republicans, a 34-vote delegation for the Democrats, all uninstructed. Tuesday's pri-

'QUO VADIS' IS THEME AT N. E.

Subject Employed In Addresses In Assemblies
And Seminars

"Quo Vadis" was the theme developed in the Religious Emphasis program observed this week at Northeast State.

Chosen by the Interfaith council, the subject was employed in addresses at general assemblies and seminars of the traditional event on the campus.

Guest speakers for the meetings represented three denominations: Catholic, Presbyterian and Methodist. Both convocations and seminars were open to persons of all faiths, however. The custom has been to rotate speakers according to denominations so that various churches would be represented over a period of a few years.

The Catholic program emphasized an address by Father Ralph Lawrence of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Rayville. He spoke on "Whither Goest Thou in the Home?"

The Rev. William Robert Gage, pastor of the Alabama Presbyterian Church, Sibley, spoke the following day on "Whither Goest Thou in the Mental Life?"

Concluding the three-day program was an address on "Whither Goest Thou in the Spiritual Life?" by Dr. Roy Beaman, professor of archaeology at the Baptist Seminary, New Orleans.

An organ prelude was played by Sister Aloysius during the first program, and musical selections were also given by the St. Matthew's School Choir. The Rev. Harold Reinhardt, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church of this city, gave the invocation, and Father Bill Allison, Newman Club chaplain, gave the benediction.

James F. Monroe of the Northeast music faculty played an organ prelude and the hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy," at the meeting sponsored by the Presbyterians. Dr. E. D. Holloway, Presbyterian minister, Monroe, gave the invocation, and The Rev. William Robert Gage pronounced the benediction.

Friday's program included music by Mrs. Florence Z. Albritton, also of the Northeast faculty, and a vocal number by the Baptist Student Union Chorus, under direction of Charles B. Littleton, college student.

Besides the speaker, other ministers participating in the program were the Rev. Ralph Cain, pastor of Memorial Methodist Church of Monroe, and the Rev. C. S. Cadwallader, pastor of College Place Baptist Church.

an opportunity to learn the newest methods in class instruction and keyboard experience presentation, they explained.

Band, orchestra and choral directors are considering the introduction of keyboard experience and "class piano" into the elementary curriculum as one of the greatest advances for music in the schools during the last decade.

Many directors are teaching keyboard experience prior to melody instruments. The results have been amazing, some conclude.

EXPOSITION BY SCOUTS IS SET

Will Be Held With More Than 1,000 Members Participating

On May 3, Ouachita Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, will present a Scout exposition in Monroe. This event, which is expected to have over 1,000 Cub Scouts participating in it, will be sponsored by the Monroe - West Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce. All Scout troops and Cub packs in the 15-parish area of northeast Louisiana are beginning preparations for this event.

The 1952 Scout exposition will be a series of booth demonstrations and exhibits by Cubs, Scouts, and Explorers depicting the entire field of Scout skills, hobbies, crafts, and requirements. It will be a display to show the public what Cubs and Scouts do - to get the institution and units before the public. Each demonstration is planned as an exhibit to fit a booth 8'x8'. Some of the larger exhibits will use more than one booth. All units will be in charge of the arrangement and decoration for their booths. All demonstrations and explanations will be handled by the Cubs and Scouts themselves. Remembering that it is action the public wants to see, each exhibit will be made "alive."

The exposition will be held in the National Guard Armory on South Grand street. It will be open from 5:00 p.m. until 9:00 p.m. on Saturday evening, May 3. Booths will be set up and ready for decoration on Friday, and the Cubs and Scouts will have all day Saturday to prepare for the show.

Tickets are now being sold by the Cubs and Scouts to the general public at 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. The money raised through this event will be used for camp improvement, and a very liberal commission will be paid to the troops and packs. Scouts and Cubs may earn and wear an attractive plastic Liberty Bell Neckerchief Slide for selling $5 worth of tickets. Awards will be made to the booths by the judges on the basis of action, uniforms and neatness, attitude, audience interest, and originality.

Some of the ideas which will be used for Cub exhibits will be Cub achievements, Cub hobbies, and Cubcraft. Scouts will use the Scout requirements, Scout skills, and any other of 112 merit badge subjects. Explorer Scouts will use their requirements and skills as a basis for their demonstration.

The Monroe - West Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce in sponsoring this event is providing the leadership and manpower required for a project of this size. Mr. Haynes Harkey, Jr., local civic leader, will be the general chairman. Harold Huckabay will assist him in the general overall duties as well as act as head of the judging committee. Stan Bagwell, the chairman of publicity committee; L. B. Ballard, chairman of promotion; Buford Jacka, chairman of layout and arrangement; and Frank Eason, chairman of physical arrangements are the men who will head the committees on the exposition.

SINGERS TO MEET AT SHREVEPORT

Tri-State Convention To Be Held There April 26 And 27

Those who love to do gospel singing, and those who love to just listen, will go to Shreveport several thousand strong Saturday and Sunday, April 26 and 27, when the sixteenth annual tri-state singing convention assembles in Municipal Auditorium, corner Millam street and Grand avenue. Public participation is invited, and there is no admission charge.

First session of the singing convention will be called to order at 2 p.m. Saturday, and from then the singing will continue until eleven o'clock. Famous quartets will render soul-stirring numbers, and there will also be trios, duets and solos. An enjoyable feature will be the group singing, when the several thousand assembled join in the harmony of well-known gospel hymns.

Sunday morning the sessions will be resumed at nine - thirty, continuing through the afternoon. A traditional part of the Sunday program will be the welcome to the singers by Mayor Clyde E. Fant and Commissioner John McW. Ford, in which they will be joined by officials of the Chamber of Commerce.

Vernis Fulmer, Nacogdoches attorney and president of the tri-state singing convention, says that reports to him from all parts of the tri-state area indicate this year's convention will be another great one. "The best of talent, both professional and amateur, from all over the tri-state area and from many other states, will be in attendance," he reports. And he also reports that the music companies will be present with strong, active representation, and the contest will be kept for the best bid for the new 1952 books.

William W. Holeman, Shreveport representative of the singing convention, also reports optimistically on the outlook for this year's conclave, and he adds a word of welcome to those who wish to attend the convention.

All pupils in the Monroe City Schools enrolled in grades 1-9, both inclusive, will participate in a testing program on Monday and Tuesday, April 21 and 22.

Standardized tests have been employed by leading school systems for many years as one method of evaluating the work of the schools in the attainment of the objectives of education. Testing and evaluation of results must always remain an integral part of the teaching process. The giving of standardized tests, for which national norms have been established, aids in supplementing the testing of the teachers in carrying out the instructional program but in no way supplants the efforts of the teacher to evaluate her teaching.

The Monroe city schools are stressing all aspects of developing desirable personality traits with which schools are concerned. Development of the whole child requires many teaching methods, many and varied instructional materials, and constant evaluation of methods and results. General testing programs supplement the more informal testing which is a part of the daily routine. Teaching must be geared to community objectives, national objectives, pupil objectives, and methods of learning. Teachers in Monroe are attempting to know each pupil completely, and to watch and direct the learning process with understanding and efficiency.

The Stanford tests have been given for many years as one significant plan of checking the results of teaching and learning. The city schools were selected as one of several hundred leading school systems in the nation to use the new tests. Two years of research, item construction, and preliminary tests have preceded the nation-wide program among selected systems. Previous editions of the tests have been used for years and have had acceptance accorded few standardized tests.

New Bank Fully Justified

West Monroe businessmen want an independent bank. This is confirmed by the fact that the West Monroe Lions Club and the West Monroe Kiwanis Club have adopted resolutions calling for the establishment of such a bank and that other West Monroe organizations are taking steps to bring up similar resolutions.

If a town serving 20,000 to 25,000 people does not have an independent bank and wants one, there seems to be no justifiable reason or excuse for not allowing it to have one. How many towns are there in the United States having official populations of more than 10,000 and having heavily populated suburban areas that are without their own independent banks? Such towns certainly are rare and there is no reason that West Monroe should be forced to remain in such a rare and undesirable category.

Ardent supporters of the proposed independent bank, have been quick to point out that there is no animosity toward the two institutions operating branch banks in West Monroe, but they say that banking controllers apparently consider West Monroe and Monroe to be the same town, which is entirely untrue, as they are separate municipalities.

West Monroe businessmen feel there are several extremely good reasons for wishing an independent West Monroe bank. One is that an independent bank would bring in more taxes to the city of West Monroe than the branch banks have been paying, another is that the city of West Monroe is growing so fast that an independent bank could be established without injuring the branch banks in any way and a third reason is that some West Monroe men have enough feeling of independence and pride in their city to want their financial affairs in the hands of West Monroe men or in the hands of men who are willing to establish a full-fledged, independent bank in West Monroe.

Under the banking laws, banks are required to pay taxes on half the capital stock, surplus and undivided profits. If a bank is established in one city and has branch banks in other cities, it may pay all its city taxes to the city in which its principal bank is located (except on real estate) or it may pay taxes to the several cities in proportion to the amount of money on deposit in the bank and its branches.

It was pointed out by the West Monroe men that the Monroe banks could have saved tax money for themselves if they had paid proportionate amounts of taxes to the city of West Monroe, instead of paying it all to Monroe, since the millage tax in West Monroe is lower. These banks have paid taxes to West Monroe only on the real estate they own in that city, the West Monroe men said, and have not made a proportionate payment on the basis of deposits.

It has been pointed out that the proposed new bank would have capital stock of $200,000, surplus of $50,000 and undivided profits of $50,000, making a total of $300,000. With $150,000 to be taxed at 21.6 mills, the annual tax would be $3,240. This compares with $220.98 paid by the largest branch bank last year, which was on real estate only, reportedly.

It boils down to the fact that West Monroe men want an independent bank, that they are able to provide ample financial backing, that West Monroe is certainly large enough to have its own bank and that, so far as we can see, there is no conceivable reason that such a bank should not be permitted. The West Monroe men do not object to the branch banks but they want one financial institution which has monetary policies not under the control of outside capital.

It's a little like a young man who wants a farm of his own instead of a small house on his father's plantation.

Candidates' Meeting Praiseworthy

The primary principle of living in a democracy is voicing one's views on the subjects which concern the public as a whole.

When men and women gather together to discuss the needs of the community and to hear and see the men and women, who have offered themselves as candidates for public office, then the people become better acquainted and acquire a feeling of knowing the persons who ask that they be elected.

During the era when the United States was placing her feet flat on the ground to mold the great nation which we have today, town meetings and public gatherings were as much a part of the community life as the immortal church.

In past years, with the tremendous growth of the country, we, the people, have grown away from the public meeting, but now more than ever we find that the situation of not only the world, but that of our nation and local communities, demands that we assemble together to discuss the status of our community, state, and nation.

Monday night at 8 o'clock a candidates' meeting, consisting of seekers for the offices of mayor, commissioner of finance and utilities, commissioner of streets and parks, and the city school board will gather at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium to discuss their platforms and views for the advancement of the city of Monroe.

The meeting is being sponsored jointly by the League of Women Voters and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, two non-partisan organizations, because they believe that a voter can select more intelligently a candidate after meeting him or her and because they also believe town meetings of this type constitute democracy in action. The two organizations in the past have done active work in promoting better government in the community.

The meeting will not be for the purpose of campaigning but will serve to introduce candidates and give them a chance to express their views and discuss with constituents matters of local importance. The audience will be allowed to question any and all of the candidates.

All voters, regardless of whom they may be supporting or whether or not they're supporting anyone, are invited to attend the candidates' meeting which will be patterned after the highly successful town meetings in New England where citizens gather to discuss affairs of government.

The voters of Monroe have an opportunity to hear and see their candidates Monday night and all should be there so as to acquaint themselves not only with the individual but what the individual stands for.

This is your meeting, so attend your meeting and exercise the privilege of being a free American.

The Cost Of Strikes

Strikes are ruinously expensive to business in general, but they are costly also to every citizen who is not directly involved in union strategy to force higher and higher wages upon the nation's economy.

Strikes entail loss of pay checks, which today are fantastically high in comparison with those of several decades ago. Union leaders constantly harp about take-home pay, but there is no take-home pay when the head of the family, and other members, are not working because of a strike. During the long-drawn out strike of automobile workers in Detroit, the economy of a great city was so seriously damaged that the call of catastrophe was everywhere.

Small business slumped noticeably as the economy of the city was damaged because of possible loss of business.

It is a fact that there will be fewer automobiles because of the strike. It is a fact that there will be fewer goods because steel furnaces are closed, always harmful to all concerned, when there is no alternative. When a strike is called, the economy of a great city is so seriously damaged that the call of catastrophe was everywhere.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

THE CASE OF ELIA KAZAN

Among the problems facing motion pictures, radio and television is the unwillingness of many Americans to pay their money for entertainment with which persons accused of communist affiliations have anything to do. This has become more complicated since some voluntary organizations of the people throw picket lines around houses showing motion pictures so involved. It makes the product defective because it encounters unusual sales resistance.

On the other hand, some persons have been seeking ways and means of clearing themselves. They hired lawyers, public relations counsel and fixers. They ran down to congressional committees for special hearings, issuing the published reports as though that cleared them. No congressional committee is empowered to clear a witness. All that such a committee can do is to publish the hearings and the findings. Some even falsely stated that the FBI had cleared them of the Communist taint, although such a function has never been delegated to the FBI.

Unfortunately, for a long time the management of the motion picture industry viewed this problem as a nuisance which interfered with their earnings. Most of their efforts to solve it failed because they did not recognize the fundamental principle that whatever record exists was made by the individual concerned; that only he or she can set the record straight.

Last summer some motion picture persons and a few anti-Communists entered upon discussions which involved certain techniques of life that have had long application. Confession, contrition and penitence are universal among human beings. But these processes are only of value if they are voluntary and if they safeguard human dignity.

Furthermore, it has been known that while a number of persons were sucked into the Communist net in the 1930's and moved through Rooseveltian liberalism in the 1940's, the Korean War opened their eyes to the absurdity of their views on Russia. Many emotions entered into such a situation, particularly among artists and intellectuals. It takes a truly great soul to admit that he had been a fool. St. Augustine did it and Tolstoy did it. But few men are of their stature.

So a device was worked out to give a man a chance to set himself right by his own means, without the intervention of any third person. No formula was adopted; none was necessary. If a man wants to tell the truth, he needs no assistance.

In the instance of the motion picture people, it was suggested that they write letters to their employers or to anyone of their selection. The employers were best, because they could make the letters available to interested parties.

It was preferred that this should be a studio rather than an industry task, because it seemed undesirable to set up a bureau and to hire checkers, clearers, private detectives and such persons. The real task is to avoid coercion, pressure, money payments or anything of the sort. Only a voluntary approach to a changed life can produce the truth.

Among the anti-Communists there are many sincere persons who question the bona fides of some conversions. Yet the fact remains that the converts from communism have done an invaluable service in the exposure of the operations of the Communist conspiracy.

Now we come to Elia Kazan. This man was a Communist from 1934 to 1936 by his own admission. He has appeared in executive sessions before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, where his testimony was incomplete. Subsequently he filed an affidavit completing his story. He said:

"For the approximately 19 months of my membership, I was assigned to a unit composed of those party members who were, like myself, members of the Group Theatre acting company."

He stated that his unit was asked to do the following:

"(1) To 'educate' ourselves in Marxist and party doctrine.

"(2) To help the party get a foothold in the Actors Equity Association.

"(3) To support various 'front' organizations of the party.

"(4) To try to capture the Group Theatre and make it a Communist mouthpiece."

It is most important that these men and women who speak out should continue to work. I am told by a fighting anti-Communist group in Hollywood that about 100 movie writers are ready to testify on the matter but that they are frightened by the bad treatment meted out to those who have already spoken. Those who show sincerity should be met more than halfway.

Our Children

HEALTHY MINDS

Thoughts are powerful. Because we do not see them, because nobody hears them, people are likely to undervalue them. That is a grave mistake, for a thought can lay you low or it can inspire you to great heights of behavior. Before any act was ever performed, a thought was born in the mind and pushed the body into action.

A thought of illness can bring on illness, illness as real, as painful and as depressing as any illness can be. By listening to stories of operations, by telling them, by describing pain and suffering, we can bring on pain and suffering that we can little afford to endure.

But the opposite is also true. By thinking about health, planning for success, hoping for all that is good for us to happen, we are very likely to have it. Mind, the home of all thought, dwells in every part of our being and has control of it and so must have great influence on what the body feels and does. This truth should make parents and teachers conscious of the duty of directing children's thoughts away from error and toward all that is good.

To enforce this effort we should use good books, books that tell stories of the triumph of good over evil, of the victory of men and women over the ill of life. We should hold before the children the picture of goodness in every walk of life, made manifest in the daily lives of people.

We neglect one of the finest mediums for this work, the great poems of our language. Beauty of thought is as essential to the growth of a healthy body and mind as is its homely truths. I would have every school child know and be able to recite accurately Longfellow's Psalm of Life. Maybe he will not catch all its overtones, but through the years they will ring in his mind to inspire and encourage him.

I would have every boy and girl learn to recite parts of Thanasopis. For sheer beauty of English language, few poems can compare with it, and for spiritual nourishment it is most satisfying. Add to these the Twenty Third Psalm, selections from Ecclesiastes, Proverbs, selections of poetry and prose that have proved helpful to oneself, and the young learner is equipped with a background that will insure him strength in time of trouble.

Sound mental health is more precious than any word can tell. It costs only an effort of will to inspire it in children, and that is a plain duty all parents and teachers owe the children in their care.

You may smile as you watch a child playing alone, but it is fundamental to his growth. Dr. Patri's leaflet P-16, "Infant's Play," will be of interest to all parents. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, care of this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

When you are buying a tube pan for angel, sponge, or chiffon cake make sure that the tube is taller than the pan sides so it will keep the top of the cake from touching the tube when it is inverted for cooling. See also that the tube is wide enough to support the pan, or that there are legs on the pan for this purpose. The bottoms of tube pans may be loose or solid.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

Associated Press News Analyst

President Truman obviously doesn't want to make a point over his hypothetical answer to a hypothetical question regarding his hypothetical power to seize the American press and radio as he has the steel industry.

The preamble to the constitution says it is designed to promote the general welfare. The President is sworn to uphold the constitution, and so claims the power to act when a steel shutdown is threatened during a period of world tension.

He was asked if he thought he could seize the press and radio. Under similar circumstances, he said, the President has to act for the best of the country.

His hearers, a special gathering of reporters and editors, took it to mean he thought he had the power to seize the press. The White House has formally declined to amplify.

There is no analogy between press and steel. So the argument is academic except for one thing. Past presidents have used quotations of past leaders as precedents for their acts, and future presidents will undoubtedly continue the practice. No president has ever tried to tamper with free speech and free press, though they have at times tried by various means, usually concealed, to prevent publication of what they didn't want published. The bare idea that tampering is possible is not a healthy legacy for Truman to leave lying around.

Newspapermen usually consider themselves thoroughly protected by the constitutional provision for press freedom. But a glance at the clause which contains it, the first clause of the bill of rights, reveals a tiny and legalistic loophole. It says Congress shall make no law infringing freedom of the press. It doesn't say specifically that the President can't act. The implications, though, are of course far clearer than those of the general welfare clause.

Of course, even a dictatorial president would probably realize the danger of trying to seize the American press. The public would recognize his character immediately. A seized press would not be believed. It would be a far different situation from its value to a totalitarian government where there has never been a truly free press and people can't know the difference.

During the war the military services and the Office of War Information sometimes attempted to use the American press for dissemination of false reports, harmless to Americans and designed to mislead the enemy. Newspapermen protested this would eventually destroy public faith in the press and ruin the only real means by which authorities could reach the people and mobilize them for the struggle.

Some saw the point and some didn't. The practice was never completely stopped.

But hardly anyone disagrees with the premise that without a free press, and a reliable one, which no government controlled press could ever be, this country would lose the last vestiges of the things we mean when we say American.

AN INDUSTRIAL DREAM

Vision, ambition and the desire to create are, and have been the ingredients for developing organizations that have revolutionized industry, and made of our country the powerful nation it has become today. Many of the stories of the history of industrial growth in the United States are as romantic and exciting as a Western novel.

In 1911, or around that year, Frank W. Ruggles, of Massachusetts, was offered a job in the small town of Alma, Michigan. There was little attraction in the proposition but at that time the west seemed to be an open field for creative work and he accepted the offer. The first two years Mr. Ruggles lived in Alma was spent in building plan upon plan, backed by the hopes and enthusiasm that go with ambition. In July of 1913, the Republic Motor Company, was organized, and four years after Mr. Ruggles had become a citizen of Alma, Michigan, the world was beating a path to the gates of the All roads led to Alma. Business men and truck dealers from all sections of the United States, Canada and the European countries converged on this small town. The pioneers of that small truck company saw a vision of the universal use of the motor truck and built their business on the basis of utility. The company started with little capital, and other some giant monster, reared its ugly head at every turn. They overcame these one by one and gradually the company placed its feet on solid ground. The purpose of the organization was to produce trucks for the mass of truck-users and not for a specialized field. The company built only ten trucks to begin with. These were sold and a popular, priced, ton truck was planned and created. Always before the mind of the engineer and the company was this one purpose, to build a product that was universally needed, that would give good service at a reasonable price.

Today there can be little doubt that one of the greatest business utilities is the commercial motor vehicle. Not many years ago the rumble of wagon wheels could be heard across the country-side, long before the break-of-day, bearing a bale of cotton from the field to the gin. The farmer living several miles from the gin, was lucky if he could get one bale ginned and return home by nine o'clock at night of the same day. Today it is not an unusual sight to see three or five bales of cotton hauled to the gin on the huge body of one truck. Fruit and vegetables are rushed to the market, hundreds of miles from the fields where they are grown, still dewy from the dew time than a wagon could deliver one load of perishable products to a market thirty miles distant and return home.

Though it was just one-half century ago, when Frank Ruggles' dream of the use of motor trucks became a concrete idea, today our highways are a maze of trucks in every size, shape and color, loaded with every known product, manufactured, or produced on the farm. The wagon has almost become an antique.

So the dream of this pioneer in the motor-truck world has been realized in inter-national proportion. He created a product that has promoted industry and lightened the burdens of business the world over.

had a run. When it departed the deficit was $230,000. Tennessee Wims has done the synopsis of a laundry list "Rose Tattoo." The Hays censors are examining it. If it gets the go-light, Warner's will pay a mint.

"Uncommon Clay," the short at the Sutton Theatre, is about famed sculptors. One swift shot is of a model in her birthday suit. Comes under the heading of art. Zanuck didn't buy all of Quentin Reynolds' book, "Courtroom." Just one chapter and the sale can't go through until they acquire the okay of Harry Hoffman. He was a lifer since freed - and he's the hero of it. Holding out for considerable coin. The movie business must be getting good. The porter at the RKO 58th Street Theatre owns a swank convertible. Alice Pearce gets top billing (with the stars) in Truman Capote's play, "The Grass Harp." She appears on stage fewer than five minutes.

Tallulah Bankhead's advance fee for her upcoming autobiography was $27,500. The title will be her first name. It will not spare her friends. "Porgy and Bess," Gertrude at its best, is practically set for a 6-week stand at the Met Opera this summer. One of the columns credits "Never Give a Sucker an Even Break" to Texas Guinan. P. T. Barnum said it. In case you've wondered what inflation is, one newspaper theater is charging $1.00. A movie mag offers an article hailing actor Jeff Chandler. The author is Mrs. Chandler. The radio is playing "Rock City Boogie." It will never replace old-fashioned noise. Either Williams has been on 15 mag covers in recent months. Couldn't happen to a nicer face. "Meet the Press" has scads of imitators but no competitors. Coast critics are agog over Shirley Booth's playing in the film version of "Come Back, Little Sheba." Talent is always new to outsiders. Wonder if Lord Beaverbrook has ever seen "Jane" at the Coronet Theatre? Author Somerset Maugham's caricature of a London newspaper publisher is that show must have been written with a stillie.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, April 19 - Now that everyone else, including the Los Angeles authorities, has apparently dropped the subject, let's talk about the Anne Sterling case - about her headline charges that a Hollywood man - about - town with whom she had made the rounds of the local night spots had ended the proceedings by giving her an unmerciful beating.

Let's talk about it precisely because everyone else seems to have dropped it.

If Anne Sterling's belated charges against her vis-a-vis for the evening are true (she told, at first, an entirely different story about being abducted and beaten by four mysterious, unknown men), why doesn't she obey the dictates of good citizenship and press charges against him? If, on the other hand, her second story like her first, is a fabrication, why is she being allowed to get away with it?

It appears to me that no matter where the truth lies, a criminal action is involved. Either the man accused should be prosecuted for assault and battery, or Anne Sterling should be prosecuted for criminal slander and false accusation. Under no circumstances should the case be dropped until it is cleared up.

Too many Hollywood scandals - far too many - explode like bombshells in the newspaper headlines, flare luridly for a few days and then fizzle out inconclusively with many people suspected and none of the facts formally established. A great many of them - and mind you, I don't mean to say that the Sterling case is one - fizzle because of a heavy coat of whitewash, applied by "influence."

Someday Hollywood - always so concerned about its reputation is going to discover an uncomfortable fact, to wit, that John and Jane Public's unfavorable opinion has resulted more from the white wash than from the thing it's been used to conceal.

IDOL CHATTER: Among Clark Gable's more unique achievements I'd class his constant dissatisfaction with a contract that pays him approximately $250,000 for about 36 weeks of work per year. In a - word description of Bob Hope: Pun-hander. Not every Hollywood glamour girl has a dog on a leash, but you'll seldom meet one who doesn't have a wolf on the string. Nominated for the best - a jilted conscience. Wonder - short time. Steve Cochran should most - improved actress - of the - year award: Evelyn Keyes.

After dating so many girls in so short a time, Steve Cochran should have a jilted conscience. Wondering must: What chance for obedience would an Army drill sergeant have if he ordered "Eyes Right" when Marilyn Monroe was to the left. Anyone who reads the Hollywood news should have a good idea, by now, why Robert Newton became famous for his sloppy clothes.

QUOTES AND COMMENT: Column: "Watch Lana Turner and Fernando Lamas when they're nightclubbing together, and you'll realize that he worships at her feet." A case of calf love, maybe. June Haver: "My sister, Gypsy Rose Lee, has always been the go-getter of the family, she brings home the bacon. Yeah - in strips!" Radio: Tomlinson may not win an Oscar for his performance in "Letter From the President," but he can thank the role for at least one distinction: It's given him his shoes shined by the two most expensive bootblacks in history. Having had the gloss on his shoes ruined when he was caught in a shower between the set and the studio cafe, he had to hold up production while he paid a visit to the MGM shoe shine stand. The shoe shine boys are examining it. It's so, time being the essence in Hollywood these days. Director Bill Weiland and Producer Arthur Freed took charge of one shoe each and did the job. Montalban was gracious about it. He gave each one of them a tip.

In her current picture at 20th Century - Fox, Anne Baxter has one big emotional scene to play which should come easy for her. It's one in which, as a passenger in an apparently doomed plane, she has to register fear. Miss Baxter will be able to play it from memory rather than through the power of imagination. Last summer, flying to Hollywood from Macaipoh, tanniel - en cyvbg Guaymas, Mexico, the plane in which she was riding had to make a forced landing when one of its engines failed. No one was injured, but Anne admits she died a thousand deaths before she discovered she was safe.

HAPPY KIDDIES SEE VICKSBURG

Group From Barkdull
Faulk School Spend Day
In Historic City

At 7:30 Friday morning, 35 excited children boarded a city school bus for an all-day trip to Vicksburg, Miss. They were accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. Orie C. Rust of Barkdull Faulk

School, and Mrs. H. E. Rivers, mother of one of the group. Their objective was the Waterways Experiment Station, and the National Military Park and Museum.

Believing that one first-hand experience is worth a dozen texts, this trip was carefully planned by the teacher and the children themselves, and generously endorsed by the principal, Miss May Coker, and the superintendent, Mr. J. M. Boyer. A travel letter in the elementary newspaper, The Weekly Reader, which the class read last January, concerning the experiment station at Vicksburg, gave them the idea of making the trip. The children wrote to Mayor Pat Kelly of Vicksburg, were referred to Col. H. J. Skidmore, director of the station, and, after writing to him, were invited to visit the station. As much fore-hand information as possible was obtained, so that the children would have an idea of the purpose of the models, and the importance of the experiments being conducted by the army engineers. The Civil War and the Siege of Vicksburg also received attention. The group received a warm welcome when the bus drew up at the administration building. Mrs. Dorothy Locklin had been appointed hostess, and she assured the children that they were expecting them and that they were happy to have Louisiana visitors. She said that Col. Skidmore was usually too busy to see visitors, but that he had expressed a desire to meet these children, as he had enjoyed their letters. Since it would be impossible to see the entire station, Mrs. Locklin invited the group to the conference room first, to see a film, showing the set-up of the station and depicting one of the experiments. Col. Skidmore joined the group there, greeted the children, thanked them for their letters, and welcomed them. The film proved a perfect briefing for the models they were to see. The experiment shown and narrated, was a series of tests to determine the most effective type of dam to build at Texarkana, Ark. to divert the waters of Red River.

The children were then taken to the out-door model of the Mississippi River, beginning at the Vicksburg Bridge, which they had just crossed. They were shown the Yazoo Canal which had been constructed to give Vicksburg a water front when the Mississippi changed its course, soon after the Civil War. They walked along the little concrete river bed in which water was flowing, down to Angola and Old River, in which the water sometimes runs backward.

The model of Niagara Falls was inside a large building. The most widely photographed model at the station, it was also most fascinating to the children. Built exactly to scale, it was designed to determine the amount of water which might be utilized for power plants without detracting from the beauty of the falls. The entire Niagara River was built behind the falls, with flags showing the American and Canadian sides.

Col. Skidmore had suggested that the children might like to conclude their tour of the models by seeing the Army tanks which were kept at the station. They were allowed to go inside the tanks, and this proved a thrill to the boys.

Lunch, provided by the cafeteria manager, was held picnic style, in the park picnic grounds. Then the children most interested in seeing the museum, were dropped off, with their chaperone, and the rest were taken on a tour of the park, stopping at the most interesting memorials, taking pictures, climbing the observation tower, and getting an over-all picture of the old battle ground. All agreed that the day was much too short and many are planning another trip with their families.

Covenant Churchmen In Picnic Party On Bayou

Men of the Covenant Presbyterian Church held a barbecue chicken supper Friday. The site was the camp of the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home, on Bayou de Siard. Between 45 and 50 men were present.

After the supper, an offering of $241 toward building a new dining room and kitchen at Alabama Church near Choudrant, was received.

It was decided to hold regular meetings of the Men's Club every third Friday at 6:30 p.m.

Ouachita To Have 82,500 Population About 1960

NEW YORK, Apr. 19.—(Special)—A look into the future of Ouachita Parish, on the basis of state population forecasts made by the United States Census Bureau, indicates there will be 79,000 people living in the parish in 1955 and 82,500 in 1960.

The subject of future population comes to the fore at this time "because the demand for figures of this kind has been considerable."

Admittedly subject to considerable error, they are realistic enough, it is deemed, to serve as a guide to the business man, manufacturer and government official making per capita estimates for future needs.

The census bureau, using three different projection procedures, came up with low, medium and high estimates for the populations of the various states and regions.

Their results, taking the medium figures, were then carried one step farther to obtain parish populations. This breakdown was made only for parishes and counties that have been changing in population at rates similar to those of their states.

Ouachita Parish, it follows, will be 6.4 per cent more populous in 1955 than in 1950, going to 79,000. The 1960 population, 82,500, is based on an 11.1 per cent rise over 1950.

These gains are greater than those expected for the West South Central States as a whole, 5.7 per cent in 1955 and 9.7 per cent in 1960.

Louisiana, estimates the census bureau, will have a population of 2,878,000 in 1955 and 3,005,000 five years later.

Looking ahead, a general leveling off in the population is foreseen. The rate of growth, phenomenal in the early stages of our national development, has now reached the point where we are increasing less rapidly.

10 Ways To Simplify Housework

The average American housewife spends 70 hours weekly at housework, says a recent college survey. Here are a few minute-saver suggestions that will lighten household chores:

(1) Install window air filters or air-conditioning in your home, to eliminate outside dust, soot and pollen and cut down on dusting, sweeping and vacuuming, suggests the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

(2) Wax wooden surfaces such as tables, chairs, door frames, window-sills and cupboard doors. Occasional wiping will then keep these clean.

(3) Use detergents for washing dishes, glassware, and clothing. The chemical action does the work, eliminating physical effort.

(4) Use stove-to-table and refrigerator-to-table utensils, allowing food to be served in the same container in which it was cooked. Cuts down on the number of plates, pots and pans used for a meal.

(5) Use a water-softener in bathroom, to avoid bathtub ring and other stains. Rinsing cleans the tub.

(6) Use floor covering which does not originate dust, is impervious to spillage, moisture, alkalis, such as Kente, rubber tile and cork tile.

(7) Use plastic table tops. They clean easily and cut down the use of tablecloths.

(8) Keep kitchen tools and pots in sight. Hang them on wall, hooks or racks within easy reach near where you use them.

(9) Paint your walls. They are easier to clean, and last longer. Now that paint is available in 1-322 colors, you can match your draperies and upholstery fabrics regardless of their color.

(10) Get the family to help you by organizing the work. If everyone puts back in place what they take out of order, placed soiled clothes in the hamper instead of leaving them on chair or floor helps remove and wash the dishes after each meal, the home-maker's work will be reduced 20 per cent.

VEY 'LITTERED' BY MUMPS
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The "doughnut king" of Korea, Pfc. Jack Leuken, 21, of San Diego, went unscathed through four trips to the Korean front, but nevertheless arrived home on a stretcher. The soldier, attached to the 24th Infantry, picked up a case of the mumps en route back aboard a transport which docked recently in Seattle.

"They insisted I be carried off as a litter case," Leuken said, "even though I felt so glad at being back I could have carried the two corporals who were packing me."

Leuken toured the war front in a "doughnut wagon" that turned out 2500 sinkers at a time. He was assigned to Special Services and was master of ceremonies for Jack Benny shows in Korea.

CRISIS NEARS IN STEEL DUEL

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP) — The steel labor crisis headed today for an early showdown with the government planning to boost wages in the seized industry and mill owners girding for an all-out court fight to prevent it.

The Senate set the stage for a vote Monday on a Republican-sponsored attempt to end President Truman's 11-day-old steel seizure. A pending rider to an appropriations bill would ban use of any federal funds for operating the mills.

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, despairing of efforts to win an industry-union agreement on working conditions, served notice he intended to order new pay rates and working rules into effect Monday or Tuesday.

Sawyer, the industry's boss under the seizure order, made an 11-hour stab at trying to egg the industry's private owners into an agreement with CIO President Philip Murray, who also heads the steelworkers' union.

But the move fell flat on the old stumbling block — the industry's contention that it needed compensating price allowances to pay for Murray's demands. The government was unwilling to give the industry the price boosts it said it needed.

Sawyer was believed ready to order into effect the full 26-cent pay increase "package" recommended by the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB). This includes an immediate 12 1/2-cent hourly increase for Murray's 650,000 members in the basic steel industry, with 21-cent increases next July and next January. Workers now are estimated to earn just under $2 an hour.

Truman has said he will make the final decision on how much the government will give Murray. Since he has endorsed all of the WSB's recommendations as fair and reasonable, it was hard to see how he would justify awarding anything less than the WSB's proposals.

It was still a question whether Truman would give Murray the union shop arrangement, compelling all steel workers to belong to Murray's union. The President said nothing about the WSB's union shop recommendation in his April 8 address supporting union claims.

On several occasions during World War II the government has imposed wage increases on seized industries.

the national convention delegates elected so far.

The Eisenhower group has been locked in a bitter wrangle for months with Taft supporters, led by national committeeman John F. Jackson, of New Orleans, who controls party machinery.

Jackson said, "I think the majority, and more, of Louisiana delegates will be for Sen. Taft at the national convention."

An Eisenhower leader, John Minor Wisdom of New Orleans, asserted the general would gain 11 of the state's 15 votes.

The Taft faction is expected to dominate the state convention in Alexandria Wednesday.

The state session will elect four delegates at large. The other 11 are selected in eight congressional district conventions.

Leaders of the Eisenhower group threaten to walk out and conduct a separate state convention if their state delegates are not recognized. Rival states are expected from several districts at the state convention.

an armistice. The sub-delegates had been unable to resolve the two key issues: Communist insistence upon Russia as one of the neutral inspection nations, and an Allied demand for a ban on military aircraft construction during a truce.

But after Saturday's sub-delegate session, a United Nations Command spokesman said the Allies would not bargain on the Russian issue.

"The United Nations considers its demand for restrictions on enemy aircraft reconstruction too important an item to trade off for anything as phony as Russia as a neutral member of the supervisory commission," the spokesman said.

There had been speculation that the U. N. Command might agree to limited reconstruction of aircraft providing the Reds withdrew Russia's nomination.

The U. N. Command's unyielding stand on aircraft reconstruction was based on the threatening buildup of the Communist air force. Although there are about 20 military aircraft in North Korea capable of putting Russian-built jets within striking distance of Allied front lines, only three or four of them are operational.

U. S. B-29s and other bombers pound the airfields almost every night. Such strikes would not be made during a truce. The Reds charge that any limitation on aircraft construction would be "interference" in North Korean internal affairs.

Only 24 Communist planes have been reported across the battlefield in three months as against 33,000 sorties — individual missions — by Allied planes inside Communist territory in that period.

Ordinary talk, or deception, largely is meaningless here.

mary will name 90 of each party, and later the GOP state committee will name 6 at-large delegations the Democrats 8 with 1/2 vote each. Because of strong backing from Gov. Dewey, Eisenhower is seen as a certain winner of most of the convention votes when the chips are down at Chicago.

Other states and their political activities of the week are:

Idaho—Democratic state convention Monday; Louisiana—general election Tuesday; a Republican convention Wednesday; Illinois—state conventions Friday; Arkansas—Republican convention Friday and Saturday; Georgia—Republican district conventions Saturday; Utah—GOP state organizing convention Saturday; Minnesota—two district conventions Saturday; Kansas—Democratic convention Saturday; Colorado—Republican state and district conventions Saturday; Arizona—Republican convention Saturday.

Political developments yesterday: Eisenhower, in bed with a feverish cold, called off a farewell trip to Scandinavia, gave no further hint as to his political plans. But his backers were not silent.

Former ECA administrator Paul G. Hoffman said the general election might force an entire change in Russian leadership.

Sen. Lodge (R-Mass.) told a Salt Lake City rally Eisenhower is the only man, except Washington, ever offered the nomination of both parties.

Taft wound up a three-day swing through Massachusetts yesterday with six talks in the Boston area. He said no matter whom the Democrats nominate, he will have to run on the "same Pendergast policy" as President Truman, this was a reference to the late Thomas J. Pendergast, Kansas City Democratic leader, under whose sponsorship Truman rose from country judge to the White House.

Publisher Frank E. Gannett, a political foe of Gov. Dewey, said he is supporting Taft, but intimated that all of his papers may not do so—he said they speak for themselves.

Taking second place was Miss Dorothy Cox, 16, while Miss Carolyn Murray, 18, high school senior, was chosen for third place. Miss Cox is a sophomore.

Various divisions of the contest held Thursday and Friday nights were bathing suits, evening clothes and talents. In the talent division the contestants gave vocals, readings or piano solos.

DR. HAYNES HEAD OF NEW LEAGUE

Little-Bigger Loop Holds First Tryouts Saturday

Dr. Joseph W. Haynes has been named as the first president of the Little - Bigger Baseball League of Monroe and West Monroe, and the circuit for boys in their early teens is planning a big campaign in its first season of operation here.

The Little Bigger League, organized nationally, is for boys at least 13 years of age and who will not attain their sixteenth birthday before August 1.

Sponsored by the Optimist Club of Monroe and West Monroe, the advent of Little Bigger League here will fill the gap between Little League and American Legion Junior baseball for boys who want to keep pace in some form of organized amateur baseball.

Other officers named by the circuit's board of directors here include T. I. McDonald, vice-president; Billye L. Adams, secretary; and Walter B. Reed, treasurer. Board members include Mr. W. L. Bendel, Saul Adler, Sam Rubin, Jr., C. G. Marechal, Robert Butz, Carl White, and Bob Harmon.

Dr. Haynes yesterday said the first practice session of candidates for the various teams will be held next Saturday. There are over 100 boys registered for Little - Bigger League play. The time and place for the initial tryouts, to be conducted under the supervision of Bob Harmon, will be announced later.

Registration blanks for boys desiring to participate in the league's summer program are available at the Monroe Recreation Center. All applications should be completed and on file before noon next Friday.

Moscow Economic Parley Scores, U. S. Man Says

NEW YORK (UP)—An American journalist back from the International Economic Conference in Moscow says the Communist-sponsored meeting scored a propaganda victory which cannot "be easily laughed off by the United States."

A. Wilfred May, an anti-Communist who executive editor of the Commercial and Financial Chronicle in New York, was the only American journalist granted a visa specifically for the talks. He said he had been asked because those who made out the invitation looked on him as representative of a "serious economic journal."

By boycotting it, he said, the United States may have created a bad impression in the world's under-developed countries, even though U.S. participation on any competent level would have proved fruitless.

The conference will have a continuing propaganda effect, May added, because a permanent commission has been set up to carry on its work. It will be headed by a Frenchman and will probably establish itself in a non-Communist city such as Copenhagen, Denmark.

May said the Moscow meeting provided a forum for severe criticism of the United States—but not by representatives of the Soviet Americans. However, participants from under-developed countries accused the U.S. of imperialism and of attaching strings to its aid programs.

Tie-in deals are also apt to result, May said. For instance Britain may sell textiles to the Soviet Union or Red China if she also will sell machinery and other items the Communists need badly.

British delegates—who had no official connection with their government—announced earlier they concluded agreements with Communist China to exchange 25 million dollars worth of textile and other products for a like amount of Chinese products. The British exports must be approved by Britain's Board of Trade.

IT'S YOUR DEAL

Pauper Poker Is Lots Of Fun

BY OSWALD JACOBY AND ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Written for NEA Service "What this country needs," suggests a Los Angeles correspondent, "is a way to play poker without losing your shirt. I've heard of various ways of playing free when you've lost all your chips. How does this work out?"

This way of playing poker is called "Pauper Poker." It's good fun for a family game, but it's not really the tough game that the dyed-in-the-wool poker player loves.

Everybody starts by taking a stack of chips. Whenever you run out of chips, you are allowed to stay in a pot without contributing. You are not allowed to raise in such a pot, but you may stay until the end. If your hand is the best at the showdown, you win the pot.

The chief trouble with this game is that there is no such thing as a bluff. After an hour or so of play there are usually one or two paupers in each pot. You can't bluff them out, since it costs them nothing to stay in.

Any fair-sized bet is therefore known to be "honest," a player who still has chips will not call your bet on mere hope or speculation. He can be sure that you are not bluffing.

This method of playing is fine for family games, in which everybody wants to come out roughly even. Dealer's choice, with lots of wild games, is the best game for this type of company.

A more complicated way of playing Pauper Poker is to agree at the beginning of the game that nobody will lose more than a certain amount—say one dollar. Everybody takes a stack of chips, and a player who loses a stack has the right to get another stack. Nobody knows what the chips are worth, however, until the end of the game.

When the game is over, the biggest loser announces how many chips he has lost. That number of chips is equal to one dollar (as previously decided). All other winnings and losses are based on that value of the chips.

For example, suppose the biggest loser has lost 400 white chips. Every four white chips is then equal to one cent. This value is applied to all other chips in the game.

LATIN-AMERICAN WINS BOSTON RUN

Doroteo Flores Outdistances 157 Others In Marathon

BOSTON, April 19 (UP)—Tiny mustachioed Doroteo Flores, a 30-year-old $7.50 a week textile worker in Guatemala City, took over the Boston A. A. Marathon at an early stage today and ran 157 rivals into the ground long before winning that famous endurance test in two hours, 31 minutes, 53 seconds.

Flores, who had attempted the 26-mile 385-yard distance only four times before, was more than three quarters of a mile ahead of New York's Victor Dyrghall when he broke the tape six minutes 14 seconds behind the hilly course's record, set by Korean Yun Bok Suh in 1947.

Dyrghall was timed in 2:36:40 and Guatemalan Champion Luis Velazquez, one of the three pre-race favorites, was third in 2:40:08.

Tom Jones of Philadelphia was fourth and Honolulu's Norman Ta-maha collapsed after finishing fifth. Ted Corbitt of New York, was sixth over the line, followed by Turkish-born Bevil Karu, who ran for New York's Pioneer Club. Edo Ramagnoli, the New York police plodder, was eighth and following him were the experienced Lou White of New York, and Arnold Briggs of Syracuse, N. Y.

Johnny Lafferty of the Boston A. A., last year's runner-up to Japan's Shigeki Tanaka, wound up 11th after fighting leg and stomach cramps all the way.

Franklin Parish Paces South In Output Of Singletary Peas

WINNSBORO, La., April 12 — (Special) — Franklin parish with a land area of 414,730 acres, of which 302,845 acres are in cultivation, is the largest grower of Singletary Peas in the entire South.

Approximately twelve cars are exported from the parish annually. This is in addition to the peas which are used inside the parish.

G. A. Luno, Franklin parish county agent, has prepared an (extension publication 1697) which is put out by L. S. U. Division of Agricultural Extension in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture, which gives complete information on Singletary Peas.

According to Mr. Luno, Singletary peas are winter peas that were discovered and introduced by Professor B. H. Singletary, Professor of Horticulture, Louisiana State University, in Mississippi. They are known as wild winter peas, while in Alabama they are known as Caley peas.

In Louisiana they are grown for grazing, for soil building, and as a seed crop. They will thrive on almost all soils in the state, especially on stiff, moist soils, either acid or neutral. They will grow on wet bottom lands where water does not stand. They will grow on wetter soils than most any of the clover or pea families.

On most soils extra lime is not essential, but application of lime is a recommended practice and will result in a better growth of the peas in lime deficient areas. On hill soils, lighter alluvial soils, coastal plain soils, from three to four hundred pounds of 3-12-12 or 6-12-12 per acre or its equivalent are needed. On more fertile alluvial soils, fertilizer is not needed. The lime or fertilizer, should be broadcast and disced or ploughed under.

Singletary peas need a good, well prepared, firm seedbed with the seed covered about one inch deep. If planted in August, the seed can be sown in a sod of Bermuda grass and will produce a stand if lightly disced. Seed should not be planted on a fresh bed without first firming it. A cultipacker should be used, if available.

Good planting dates are August 15th to September 15th for unscarified seed, and September 15th to October 15th, if scarified seed are used. Scarified seed are seed with coat ruffed mechanically to absorb moisture and to give quicker germination. There is a larger percentage of hard seed in Singletary peas and only 35 per cent to 45 per cent will germinate the first year.

This is why a high rate of seeding of unscarified seed is recommended. The best rates of seeding are forty to fifty pounds of scarified seed per acre. They, as well as all legume seed need to be inoculated when planted on land for the first time. Vetch inoculation should be used.

The best way to plant Singletary peas for grazing is to sow them in oats, or a good sod of Bermuda grass. They like a companion crop. Bermuda grass acts as a mulch, aiding germination and later, it serves as a support for the peas. The time to begin grazing them depends on the season and the planting date. In the Florida parishes, grazing may begin the latter part of November or the first of December. In North Louisiana, around December 15th or 20th.

They may be grazed up to April 1st or to April 15th, depending on the section of Louisiana in which they are grown. They will make more seed if they are not permitted to grow too rank. A growth of three to four inches should be maintained. Livestock should be removed when the peas begin to bloom.

If grazed at this stage cattle may become lame and stiff in their joints and stop eating for ten days or two weeks. No cases of bloat or deaths caused by grazing on Singletary peas have been reported in Franklin parish. Hogs will graze them as they do clover. They should also be taken off as soon as the plants begin to bloom.

The seed are saved with a combine adjusted as for oat harvest. They should yield five hundred to one thousand pounds of seed per acre, depending on the season, soil fertility, insect damage, and the stage at time of combining. Singletary peas do not all ripen at once. Harvest should begin when they begin to "pop out" in the field, at which time about three-fourths are ready. The seed should be dumped from the sacks and stirred at intervals. If this is done many of the half-green peas will cure and germinate when planted. The vines after passing through the combine can be saved for hay if needed. Bermuda grass will smother out the peas if allowed to grow too rank.

Close grazing or clipping in September will prevent Bermuda from getting too rank, and will permit Singletary peas to germinate. After Singletary peas once go to seed, they will come up for several years.

The Experiment Station at St. Francis, La., has reported that Singletary peas are "in great shape." He said that the 250 head of cattle grazing on 200 acres of clover and fescue are "in great shape."

On the Harry Shields pasture, the fescue was seeded last fall. The pasture was described as an ideal combination of red clover and fescue. "We intend to try to improve our cattle with high grade bulls," Shields said.

He reported that he intends to fill his silo with 180 tons of corn ensilage. "If the cattle hadn't had clover and fescue this winter they would have starved for lack of nitrogen," Shields said.

Shields has 175 head of cattle, 200 acres of cotton and a pecan grove.

A. P. Parham, beef cattle specialist from L. S. U., cited the excellent condition of the bulls on the Shields farm.

"There are two ways to give cattle size," Parham said. "These ways are by feeding and breeding. By the looks of Shields pasture and the excellent condition of his bulls I would conclude that he is utilizing both methods."

County agent Rose accented the excellence of the fescue and clover on the pastures of the E. V. Parker farm, which was the last stop on the day's agenda.

Included among the cattle and business men making the trip were John Terrell, Lake Providence seed store owner; M. E. McBride of the FFA; J. J. Pody, cattlemen E. M. Morris, partner of Terrell R. H. Barron, Oak Grove seed store operator; George Shepard, manager of the Miliken plantation; Bill Parker, cattlemen; John Hester, director of East Carroll parish welfare; and David C. Binstliff, owner of Miliken plantation, who flew from Houston to take part in the motorcade.

RICH CROP

Lawrence McMahan and G. A. Luno, Franklin parish agent, are shown in the stand of Singletary peas on McMahan's farm. The stand is one of the most luxuriant in Franklin parish.

Joseph shows that Singletary peas are about the same as Vetches or Austrian winter peas as a soil building crop. On hill soils, unless fertilized, they will make a slower growth and may be too late to be followed by cotton. To plant for a cover crop, the seed if unscarified, should be planted just before laying - by cotton; if scarified, they should be planted in late September or early October. They will normally be ready to turn under between April 1st and 10th.

KEN BEAGLE, famed firearms expert (above), will appear here next Saturday afternoon for a demonstration and gun clinic at the Monroe police department's new pistol range on Buck Jones road. The public is invited to attend the event without charge.

BEEGLE SHOOT HERE SATURDAY

Famed Marksman Will Appear For Public Demonstration

"Folks who like to shoot also like to watch the other fellow shoot," says Ken Beagle, internationally famous marksman who will demonstrate his shooting ability at the Monroe police pistol range next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock under the sponsorship of the Ouachita unit of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation. The shoot is open to the public, and the new police range is on Buck Jones road southeast of Bernstein Park.

Beagle and his wife, Blanche, make up one of Remington Arms Company's shooting exhibition teams. During the war they toured the country, appearing before millions of GIs at many army camps and naval bases. That their instructions were worthwhile is attested by the fact that they are the recipients of numerous letters from overseas combat soldiers who give the teachings of the Beagle's credit for saving their lives.

"Every one who shoots is curious about how the other fellow does it and likes to try anything new in the shooting line," says Beagle. "Many of the fellows who watch me shoot go home with the 'if he can do it, so can I' idea and start in practicing some of my shots. And they can 'do it,' too, if only they will not become too easily discouraged and will keep on practicing until they develop the proper timing."

"Proper timing is the essence of all shooting at moving targets. Once the shooter learns to make the gun practically a part of himself, learning to shoot with efficiency becomes comparatively easy."

Beagle's exhibition is replete with feats of marksmanship which seem almost impossible to the average sportsman. He uses fourteen different types of guns and is equally proficient with rifle, shotgun and pistol. His lecture on proper and safe gun handling, which runs throughout his exhibition, is one which every father should have his young son hear.

Mrs. Beagle assists her noted husband in all of his exhibitions. She is an accomplished sportsman and loves all phases of outdoor life.

MASTER FIDDLE WOOD'S WINNER

Heavily Backed Tom Fool Neck Back In 2nd Place

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—Master Fiddle turned on a late stretch drive to defeat heavily favored Tom Fool by a neck in a thrilling photo finish of the Wood Memorial race at Jamaica today.

The triumph put Master Fiddle smack in the middle of the Kentucky Derby picture. The dreby will be run at Louisville, two weeks from today.

Master Fiddle, which paid $11.30, $4.60 and $3.80, is the sleek, roan son of First Fiddle, one of the Handicap stars of the mid - forties.

Jockey Dave Gorman barely got the Myhelyn stable horse up in the last jump or two after Tom Fool, the Greenlee stable's 1951 two - year - old champion, had battled head and head for the lead most of the mile and one-eighth with Pintor from the Montpelier farm of Mrs. Marion Dupont.

Tom Fool was second, half a length ahead of Pintor. It was another half length back to the fourth horse, Bayard Sharp's Hannibal.

Master Fiddle is owned jointly by Nicholas Martini, New Rochelle, N. Y., furniture manufacturer, and Meyer Mazor, who sells furniture in Washington, D. C.

The winner was clocked in 1:52.25 on a fast track, and was coupled with Jack Amiel's Count Flame in the betting. Amiel owned Count, which topped the $100,000 Louisville classic last year.

Wildlife Group Preparing For Big Fish Fry Here Next Saturday Night

Supper Will Climax Ouachita Unit's Membership Drive

A fish fry designed to overshadow all such other events ever held in this section is on tap for next Saturday evening when the Ouachita unit of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation holds its big fish supper at Bernstein Park.

Fifteen hundred pounds of fish are expected to be prepared for the evening in addition to gallons and gallons of chocolate milk, soda, pops and other drinks.

J. B. Thoman, unit president, last night said the wildlife chapter is arranging its program so that sportsmen will be able to attend the Ken Beagle demonstration of firearms at 2:30 o'clock at the police pistol range, and then move on to Bernstein Park for the big fish fry beginning about 5:30 o'clock.

Horace Buckley and G. M. Collins, Ouachita game wardens, assisted by Marvin Quillen, E. Jones, W. P. Oxley, Harry Wood, and Thoman, have been busy securing fish, preparing them and storing for the Saturday event.

Thoman said over 500 pounds of fish are already in storage and more will be added during the week. He said Young's Fish Market and Harold Grayson, as well as other commercial fishermen, have been contributing buffalo and catfish for the feed.

A. E. Jones, chairman of the unit's fish fry committee, will be in charge of the general cookery Saturday. Hush puppies will be prepared by the specialists, George Call and Lovell Johnson, while "Toby" Bancroft will supply his specialty in cole slaw. Others with special duties in preparing for the feed are E. M. Baber, Jack Rushing, "Pap" DeLoe, J. L. Edwards, O. C. Bell, J. C. Lolley, and George Cole.

Speakers on the program will include Judge David I. Garrett, Monroe; and Charles Beason, Alexandria, president of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation and Charlie Bosch, Baton Rouge, executive secretary of the state federation.

Music for the occasion will be provided by Don Fletcher with his rhythm guitar; Laymond Fletcher with the steel guitar; Oscar Davis at the drums, Mrs. J. B. Thoman at the piano, and Meredith Johnson, vocalist.

Bancroft Paper Company will furnish accessories for the fry, including paper plates, cups, etc., as well as 150 pints of chocolate milk.

The fish fry takes the place of the unit's regular monthly meeting and serves as a stimulant in its current membership drive.

All members of the unit are expected to be present, while prospective members are invited upon payment of $1 dues at the gate.

Albany, Calif., April 19 (AP)—Charging into the lead on the turn for home, Marcor won the $25,000-added Golden Gate Derby at Golden Gate Fields today. The time for the mile and one-eighth was 1:48 3-5.

Steel, a long shot, closed with a rush and took second.

Alate ran third and Stranglehold was fourth.

Marcor won by half a length and paid $9.40, $4.90 and $3.90. Steel, with Mexican Jockey Ismael Valenzuela up, returned $22.60 and $10. Alate ran coupled as an entry with Count Abbey and paid $5.40.

The victory was worth $15,900 to Marcor's owners.

Two weeks ago, Jockey Baird brought Marcor home a victor in the $15,000-added Oakland Handicap and rode most of the race with his feet out of the stirrups. He had his mount close up to the pace today and took command when he pleased.

Big Noise and Horsetrader - Ed set most of the early pace but faded under the pressure.

A total of $205,004 was bet on the race.

A crowd of 21,631 turned out.

REDKINS BLAST CENTENARY, 15-6

Northeast State Continues Unbeaten With Four Wins

The Northeast Louisiana State College Indians yesterday racked up their fourth baseball win against no losses in their inaugural season in four-year college sports as they bowled over the Centenary Gents of Shreveport, 15 to 6, at the Northeast diamond yesterday.

The teams were evenly matched in the hitting department with 10 hits each, but six errors on the part of the Gents and six base-on-balls for the Indians spelled a weighty difference in the final outcome of the game.

Catches Of 187 Fish And 122 Fish Made With Amazing New Discovery

CINCINNATI, OHIO

Reports are coming in from all over the country about record catches being made with a great new fish attractor called Doodle Oil.

Here is what B. C. Grier, 1210 Excelsior St., Winston-Salem, N. C., says: "On my first bottle of Doodle Oil I had good luck. Caught 35 Crappie, 2 Catfish, 18 Carp, 28 Bream, 3 Bass and 13 Perch... 122 fish in all. Please send more Doodle Oil."

187 FISH CAUGHT

T. C. "Bubber" Craft, Aliceville, Alabama, has this to say: "I had never caught a mess of fish out of this certain lake in all my twenty years of fishing. After purchasing one bottle of your Doodle Oil and sprinkling a few drops on earthworms, I caught 187 Blue Gill, Shell Crackers, Channel Cat and Bass in the last three mornings of fishing. I'll never go on another fishing trip without Doodle Oil."

Mrs. E. B. Corey, 68 Touthant Ave., Yonkers, N. Y., writes this letter: "Doodle Oil is wonderful in salt water. Caught 72 Pogies and Sea Bass. There were nine of us fishing on the boat and with Doodle Oil, I beat all the rest."

W. C. Walley, 2316 DeKovan Ave., Racine, Wisconsin writes: "Fishing with Doodle Oil is a real thrill. Caught 75 Jumbo Perch and one Catfish. Am a real Doodle Oil fan."

Ben McGee, 3414 Shelby Ave., Waco, Texas writes: "Please rush me another bottle of your famous Doodle Oil Fish Bait. With the last bottle we caught 105 Catfish and Bass in two nights' fishing... other fishermen, without Doodle Oil, were only taking a few fish. We have fished all our lives and can truthfully say we have never used any fish lure with as great a drawing power as DOODLE OIL."

You've just read what these fishermen say about Doodle Oil. We've had other stories just as enthusiastic, about results with Doodle Oil on pike, perch, bass, trout, crappie, catfish, sea trout, sea bass, snook and other SMELL LEADS FISH TO FOOD.

Fish depend heavily on their sense of smell to find their food. Doodle Oil gives your bait or artificial lure an aromatic scent that appeals to all kinds of fish.

Try Doodle Oil on your next fishing trip. If your fishing tackle dealer doesn't have Doodle Oil yet, order direct by sending $1.00 for each bottle wanted to Davis Mfg. Co., Dept. La-4, 113 W. Jackson, Ave., Knoxville, Tenn. Inquiries from sporting goods stores invited.

cher was his second homer of the season.

Munger still was around when Baumholtz who hit only two home runs all season, drilled a circuit wallop over the right field screen with one aboard in a three-run Cub fifth.

Getz, Moran Rematched With Laye, Curtis For Tag Tussle At Gallio's

Villains Want Bout On Winner-Take-All Basis Tuesday

Al Getz and "Sailor" Moran are up for a rematch Tuesday night at Gus Kallio's Arena with Charley Laye and Jack Curtis, who locked out a win over the other pair in a tag team wrestling match last week.

Getz and Moran must have made up since last week's battle when they began fighting with each other after the regular bout was over.

Moran made a slip in the final second of the scramble and floored Getz instead of Curtis, and Laye made the pin. Getz got up and started swinging indiscriminately at Moran and the referee and finally left the ring raging at the top of his lungs.

This week, though, Getz and Moran are pals again and ready to take on the other pair on almost any terms. "We had them beat," they said, "and we're ready to do it again."

"We'll challenge them to a winner-take-all match and go home with the whole pot."

Kallio stated last night that Laye and Curtis would be asked before the match if they agreed to the winner-take-all terms, and their decision will be made final just before the match.

Curtis and Laye are almost certain to agree to the terms, since not only do they believe in themselves but a rejection would endanger their high standing with the fans.

Speaking of Moran and Getz last night, Kallio said, "They really seem to mean business this week, because if they lose the bout under their own terms they won't make any money at all."

Moran, Kallio added, may even stand a chance of having to put money out of his own pocket and not make any either. It seems that

The tag team match, which will be the main event, will have a 90-minute time limit with two falls to win. There will also be two short time limit semi-final bouts between opponents from the different tag teams.

Here's a Challenge Only

FERGUSON

Dares to Make!

As the Ferguson Dealer in this community, we will publicly match the new and far more powerful Ferguson "30" against any other tractor. We dare to do this because the new Ferguson "30" is bigger in power, in performance, in economy! At a "Showdown" demonstration we will prove that the Ferguson "30" with Ferguson system Implements, meets more of the needs of more of the farmers . . . more of the time . . . than any other tractor . . . outperforming them doing all of the following jobs:

Moldboard Plowing	Harrowing, Spike Tooth	Row Crop Cultivating	Side Delivery Raking
Disc Plowing	Harrowing, Spring Tooth	Field Tilling	Loading & Spreading
Harrowing, Tandem Disc	Rotary Hoeing	Subsoiling	Wood Lot Sawing

There you are, farmers! The stage is set for a "Showdown." We know we have the best tractor in the world and we're ready to prove it to you.

We are not just claiming what the Ferguson "30" can do. We'll let this demonstration do the talking for us.

If you are thinking of buying a new tractor, look at all of them. Listen to what other dealers tell you their tractors can do. Ask these dealers if they are willing to prove these claims at a "Showdown" demonstration on your own farm. Then get in touch with us.

Match these jobs a Ferguson Tractor can do with Ferguson System Implements against similar jobs any other tractor claims to do . . . and you'll see we can do those jobs better with our new Ferguson "30." And we'll ask you to be the judge of how much better we do them.

What Other Say EDITORS' Roundtable

EISENHOWER'S STRATEGY
To a very large minority of editors General Eisenhower's decision not to actively campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, though returning home from his NATO command, is consistent with his position thus far and politically wise. But a plurality of editors feels that if Eisenhower refuses to state specific views on the various campaign issues, this will work against his prospects of being the Republican nominee. A rather large minority of editors thinks only time can tell whether Eisenhower's political strategy is wise.

Savannah (Ga.) Morning News (Ind.): "Gen. Eisenhower's request . . . that he be released from his NATO command by June 1 and placed on the inactive retirement list means that he will retain his status in the military establishment, which, in turn, means that he will be restricted somewhat in expressing his views on public questions. For example, if he should see fit severely to criticize President Truman's administration he would, in effect, be criticizing his commander-in-chief. . . . General Eisenhower can be expected, however, to give clear-cut views on vital public questions without dealing in personal attacks."

St. Louis (Mo.) Post-Dispatch (Ind.-Dem.): "The General made it plain in a press conference that he would not actively campaign before the Republican convention July 7. Will the Republican party be given an adequate opportunity to size him up as a civilian? Is it not incumbent upon Gen. Eisenhower to make his position specifically known on specific issues of the pre-convention campaign? New that he has decided to come home, should he not ask himself whether he ought not to doff his military mantle as soon as possible?"

Wilmington (Del.) Journal-Evening (Ind.): "Eisenhower will not resign his commission in the Army until and unless he is nominated for the presidency. . . . This will not be entirely satisfactory for the public or for the general's rivals. . . . who are protected by no such safeguards from the rough and tumble of political campaigning. However, it is fully in keeping with the stand that he will not actively seek the honor. And we also don't see how anyone can blame him for being reluctant to give up the salary he has earned by a lifetime of service to his country unless he is actually nominated."

Charlotte (N.C.) Observer (Ind.-Dem.): "When the American people are in the throes of selecting a new President, they have a right to a good look at all the candidates. . . . We do not imply that Eisenhower is afraid to take the hard knocks of a campaign, but his statement indicates he still thinks he can escape them, at least until after the Republican convention. He will try to make a few innocuous speeches suffice for his campaign. He is in for a disillusionment there, because, as sure as he gets within range of the political guns, they will open fire on him. He will either have to return that fire or take cover."

New York Herald Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "The pressure on Eisenhower to commit himself on a thousand details of policy and legislation will be remorseless; yet he is evidently resolved during his first weeks to hold to the big issues and the large approach. In this, we believe, he will be responding to the true wishes of his supporters. . . . To the millions of men and women who work for his nomination, not the least attractive feature of his candidacy is that he comes to the great problems of American life with a certain flexibility and openness of mind, free to apply an exceptionally qualified intelligence. . . ."

Washington (D.C.) Star (Ind.): "The Star has no doubt concerning the strength of popular support for General Eisenhower. It is very strong indeed. But that is not the same thing as votes in the nominating convention. The voters as well as the professional politicians are going to want to know where he stands on the important issues of the day, especially the domestic issues. There are those who think it is smart politics to avoid any such expression. But the experience of past Republican campaigners does not indicate that this is the correct view. . . . In the Star's belief, General Eisenhower ought to speak out. . . ."

Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle (Ind.-Dem.): "If the Eisenhower forces are still left with a candidate whose lips are sealed, on political matters, the Taft wing of the party cannot be too happy about his continued silence, either. Since the General will not debate the issues . . . they can only criticize him for his aloofness. . . . Only time will tell whether General 'Ike's' strategy - of coming home but refusing to actively campaign - will puncture the Eisenhower-for-President boom, and give Taft the nomination, or whether it will make the General more popular by being hard to get."

Judge Upholds Negro Voting

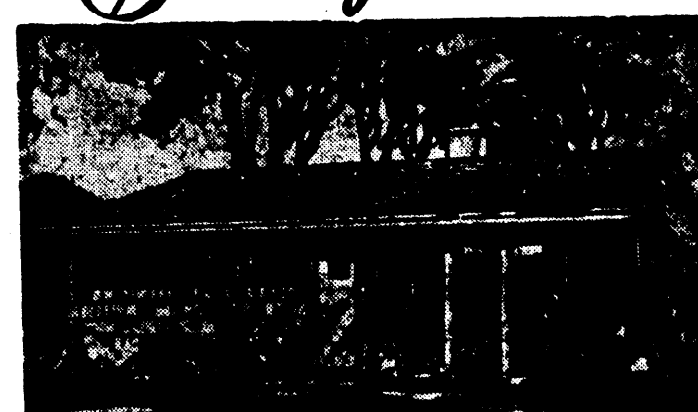

SHREVEPORT, La., April 19 (AP) Federal Judge Gaston Porterle today handed down an opinion forcing the Bossier Parish registrar of voters to allow Negroes to register and vote.

The judge said Mrs. Mary K. Bryce, registrar for the past 31 years, employed "consistent and patent discrimination" against the Negroes, particularly since there was "not a single colored voter registered" although there are 13,822 Negroes in the parish.

The ruling was in a suit against Mrs. Bryce brought by several Negroes who claimed that she discriminated against them when they attempted to get on the registration rolls of the parish.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK (AP) — In one of the slowest short sessions in many months, the stock market today rocked back and forth right close to dead center.

Prices when they changed at all usually moved fractionally. Only a smattering of higher priced issues strayed a point or more. One of these was Texas Pacific Land Trust which was up 4 points at 128 early in the day and then fell back. Yesterday it hit the most active list up 11 points.

Trading came to an estimated 400,000 shares. The slowest two-hour session this year was 200,000 shares traded Feb. 14.

It was quite evident that everyone was waiting to see what might come out of the steel dispute over wages and prices with the government ready to force a wage increase but apparently not so willing to permit prices to rise in compensation.

Steel shares themselves today were quite steady. U. S. Steel was down most of the day by an eighth or a quarter while other steel shares moved slightly either way.

Spring weather which usually causes a drop in the circulation of the Ouachita Parish Public Library, has had little effect this year. People continue to come to the library for reading material and in search of material to fill a particular need. New books arrive each week and are added to the library collection. In the past week a number of books worthy of notice arrived. Frank Yerby, who has a large following, has gone far afield in his latest novel "The Saracen Blade." The scene of this story is Italy of the 12th century. He has evidently done a large amount of historical research for writing this story, but he has so cluttered up his narrative with historical detail, that one begins to lose sight of the main story. It is by far the most scholarly thing he has done, but whether it will satisfy the Yerby enthusiasts remains to be seen.

Books about Biblical characters have enjoyed quite a vogue in the past few months. The latest one of this type is "The Tentmaker" by Julius Berst. This story is based on the life of Paul and is a most interesting narrative. Novels with a Louisiana setting are always popular. The newest one is "Impound of Waters" by Marion Laird. It is based on the life of John McDonough, one of the most colorful characters in early Louisiana history.

Patricia Wentworth is one of the best of the English mystery writers. Her newest story is "The Watersplash" and again is concerned with the adventures of Miss Silver. Erle Stanley Gardner has a new story called "The Case of the Moth-Eaten Mink" which continues the exploits of Perry Mason.

A book which has created a great deal of interest is "Mr. President" by William Hillman. This book is based on material taken from the personal papers of President Truman. It is a beautiful book and one worth looking at, for the illustrations alone, even though one does not agree with his policies. Another beautifully done biography is a continuation of the publication of the journals of James Boswell. This one is called "Boswell in Holland." It gives a great deal of information about the life of the eighteenth century. "Nell Gwynn, Royal Mistress" by John Harold Wilson is a very colorful story dealing with life in restoration England. In addition to the court life there is much information about the Theater of that period.

Almost everyone is interested in making their home as attractive looking as possible. "Decorative Art, 1951-52" edited by Rathbone Holmes is a perfectly lovely book of interior decoration. The pictures are beautifully done and the colors are exquisite. This book should be an excellent guide to anyone beautifying a home. Another lovely book of interest to homemakers is "Old Silver for Modern Settings" by Edward Wendham. Anyone interested in the work of the old craftsmen will enjoy this book.

So much is happening in the world today that it is important for us to keep up with events. "Greece; American Dilemma and Opportunity" by Lefter Stavrianos gives a stimulating picture of life in modern Greece. "All the best in the Mediterranean" by Sydney A. Clark is a wonderful guide to the countries in that region.

Robert Tarrant, who is one of the most popular present day Louisiana writers has written a most interesting account of famous murder trials in New Orleans, which he calls "Ready to Hang." This book will be in great demand. One of the most colorful characters in early Louisiana was St. Denis, the founder of Natchitoches. Ross Phares has written a very fine account of his life which he calls "Cavalier in the Wilderness." Another colorful figure in early American history was Colonel Jack Hays of Texas. James K. Greer has written a thrilling account of his life. The title of which is "Colonel Jack Hays."

Immanuel Velikovsky, author of the very startling book "Worlds in Collision" which appeared last year has a new title called "Agnes in Chaos." This is a history of the ancient world written from a new viewpoint and with many startling conclusions. "Great Voices of the Reformation" by Harry E. Fosdick is a thrilling account of the activities of many of the great men of the reformation period.

These books are available at your branch of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Remember to vote for the renewal of the library tax on May 6 in order to keep your library in operation.

Collinston W. S. C. S. Has April Meeting

The Rev. David Herrell gave an interesting review on the text book, "The Negro in the Methodist Church," from the study, "The Family, a Christian's Concern," when the Collinston W. S. C. S. met in the home of Mrs. Guy Boyd April 1 at 7:30 p. m. with 13 members present.

Mrs. A. J. Tarver gave an inspiring devotional, taking as her scripture the 11th chapter of St. Mark, verses 1-10. She was assisted by Mrs. Alton Norsworthy, Mrs. Helen Howell, Mrs. Guy Boyd, and Mrs. B. W. Hoppood in instructing the group in reasons we should remember Jesus.

Mrs. Norsworthy presided at the business session and appointed the following committees for April: Sick committee, Mrs. A. J. Now's the time to really start to enjoy your music.

Music lovers in this vicinity are eagerly awaiting the Lily Pons Concert Tuesday, April 22, Neville High School, and the Porter Hays Organ Seminar, April 23, Northeast Louisiana State College.

Twenty-nine cotton fashions made from McCall's patterns will be shown in a fashion show entitled "Fashion Fireworks in Cotton"... a show aptly named for never have cottons played a more dramatic fashion role than this spring and summer! Leading cotton houses are cooperating with McCall's in this unusual show to bring to the woman who sews the newest and most fashion-right cottons in fashions she can make for herself!

What makes the show even more interesting is the fact that it duplicates the fashion show that toured with the 1952 Maid of Cotton, Miss Pat Mullarkey! Included are the very cotton fashions worn by Miss Mullarkey on her tour!

The show presents high-fashions for every hour of the day... includes every type of cotton for everything from beach-wear to evening fashions... and is climaxed by a charming garden wedding party in crisp organdy!

Among the outstanding cotton fashions that will be seen are pedal pushers with the new "Siamese" look, jacketed sun ensembles, sheer redingotes, princess coat styles, "dressed-up" denim for dates and adaptations of the famed Italian Couture done in new fashion cottons! The cotton fabrics that will be seen include the newest of fashion ideas... "textured" effects, crisp taffetized and "polished" cottons, new tissue-weight ginghams and chambrays, shantung - weaves, quilts, tweedy weaves! The fabric house represented read like a who's-who of the fabric world! Names that have long been household words in America! Cottons from Dumari, Ely and Walker, Fisha, Stoffel, Logantex, Dan River, Peter Pan, Flugelman, Ameritex are represented in the twenty-nine garment showing!

Of particular interest among the fashions that will be shown are a chambray bathing suit with the new covered-up look whose brief skirt detaches to reveal brief romper pants... the accompanying terry wrap is lined in a "companion" chambray stripe! Denim presents a new worldly look in a slim princess line date dress with brief striped jacket. A striking town dress is made in black and white pique... cut on coat lines with new "bell" sleeves. The French influence shows up in a "Martingale" short coat of brilliant peacock blue corduroy over a slim sheath dress. The much discussed Italian styling is seen in a striking dressy fashion of cotton with the look and sheen of damask with extraordinarily full skirt and "horse-collar" neckline. A second "Italian" fashion puts stiffened detachable panels and a separate girdle over a slim sheath... made in a satin cotton that has a reversible design.

Mrs. Winifred Mather, McCall's stylist from New York will be here to present the showing Tuesday, April 22nd at 10:30 a.m. in the Cameo Room of the Virginia Hotel, and will also be available during that time for those seeking home-sewing and wardrobe styling advice.

MISS ETHEL ANN SMITH IS BRIDE OF WILLIAM DARK

In a double ring ceremony Miss Ethel Ann Smith, daughter of marked by artistry and simplicity, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Smith, of Columbia, was united in marriage to Staff Sergeant William Dark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross C. Dark of Columbia, at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. J. D. Kitchingham officiated at the ceremony.

The wedding was of interest throughout this section of the state and was attended by a concourse of relatives and friends.

An improvised altar was artistically arranged with large baskets of white stock, calla lilies and fern. Wedding bells were artistically arranged from the center of the decorated arch.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Sylvia McGuffie played "Always" and the traditional "Wedding March" as the bride and groom entered.

The maid-of-honor, Joyce Ann Wommack, wore a brown suit with matching accessories.

The bride was radiantly beautiful in a gold wool suit with accessories of navy and white. She wore a white camellia corsage.

Jerry Dark, brother of the groom, served as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Smith was becomingly attired in an orchid suit with accessories of black. Her corsage was of pink split carnations. The groom's mother, Mrs. Dark, was wearing a navy suit with matching accessories. She also wore a corsage of pink split carnations.

A reception was held immediately following the wedding at the home of the bride's parents.

The bridal green and white colors were used in the arrangement of the Calla lilies, stock and fern placed at points of vantage in the reception suite.

The bride's table was overlaid with cutwork linen cloth. Calla lilies, stock and fern arranged with artistry formed a center decor, which enhanced the tiered wedding confection, topped by a miniature bride and groom and the crystal punch bowl. Serving the cake was Mrs. Ross Dark and Mrs. George Harris. The punch bowl, Mrs. W. A. Smith ushered the guest into the room for refreshments.

After a short wedding trip, Mrs. Dark will continue her school work. Staff Sergeant Dark will leave for Tacoma, Wash., where Mrs. Dark will join him later.

BAYOU DESIARD GARDEN CLUB HAS APRIL MEETING AT HOME OF MRS. R. D. FARR, JR.

The Bayou Desiard Garden Club held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. R. D. Farr, Jr., with Mrs. R. T. Farr as co-hostess and Mrs. H. W. Tolson, president, presiding.

The minutes of the last meeting was read by Mrs. Shelby Cagle, followed by a horticultural report by Mrs. R. C. Holler.

Mrs. R. D. Farr, Jr., was in charge of the program. Her subject was flower arrangements, and was based on the book of "Flower Arrangements," which the club is to study for the entire year. Chapters one, two, and seven were taken up at this time. Mrs. Farr chose as her first topic "Fun with Flowers."

"She states though we are all new on arranging flowers that by practice you will improve, and that mechanical tricks in handling flowers and foliage, the selection of colors, the use of containers that "go with" the plant material you wish to place them will gradually become second nature, and by attending flower shows you will learn why one composition is satisfying and another is not, and the ability to analyze the work of others will in turn aid you immensely in improving your own. Fun with flowers can also produce a hobby—one of collecting odd and beautiful containers for the flowers you grow in your own garden.

The second topic was "Arrangements in the Home." The purpose of the art of flower arranging is to contribute an additional note of cheerfulness and happiness to our home surroundings. The first step in the effective use of arrangements is to realize that each vase, or bouquet, is but one of many factors that contribute to the general effect. When the flower arrangement is placed in a room it becomes a part of a larger composition. If the arrangement blends with its surroundings, and is appropriate then the decorative effect of each is enhanced. Design, scale, balance, and harmony must all be kept in mind if the best effects are to be achieved.

In chapter two, "Past and Present" we learn that in western civilization, flower arranging is comparatively a recent art. In the Orient it goes back many hundreds of years. There are four types of flower arrangements. Victorian—where solid masses, rich in coloring, in keeping with the furniture and the decor of the day. French Empire compositions—with more attention given, to classic tradition were less massive and executed with a lighter touch and in gay and more delicate color. Flemish and Dutch compositions were, if possible, even more solid than Victorian. Colonial Arrangements—made up of such simple flowers as graced the colonial gardens, and supplemented by grasses or weeds. They were lacking in the finished elegance that characterized their European counterparts.

Modern Flower Arrangement is distinctly an American form of art, and is still being developed here. Undoubtedly the featuring of highly competitive classes in flower shows throughout the United States has been most important factor in developing the American type of flower arrangements.

Poison For Cut Worms

They do their dirty work at night, those ugly little cut worms. Mrs. Mildred Swift says, "These worms cut your plants down over night, but can be controlled by poison. To make the poison bait you will need:

1 pound of bran or cornmeal, 3 tablespoonfuls of molasses or syrup, 3 tablespoonfuls paris green, about 1 pint of water.

Mix the bran and paris green; dissolve the syrup in the water. Then stir in the paris green. Prepare this several hours before it is put out. Scatter around the plants late in the afternoon.

The agent warns that this bait is poisonous so should be kept away from children, pets and poultry.

Easter Lily Day Held in Ferriday

FERRIDAY, La., April 19.—Easter Lily Day was held in Ferriday on Saturday in conjunction with the 19th annual Easter Seal appeal of the Concordia Parish Unit of the Louisiana Chapter National Society for Crippled Children and adults.

More than 20 of the city's prettiest girls were on the busy corners of the business district of Ferriday selling Easter lilies for handicapped persons.

Donations for the Easter lilies will be used to finance such services as braces, shoes, and transportation to hospitals in this and other communities. Thus Easter shoppers in Ferriday had an opportunity to make Easter and every day happier for the community's crippled children, and as a result a large sum was realized.

HOSTESSES AT GARDEN PILGRIMAGE

Monroe Garden Club Has Annual Garden Pilgrimage

Members Tour Three Lovely Homes With Tea At Home Of Mrs. J. Hunter Thatcher, Jr.

A garden pilgrimage and tea was held Tuesday, by the Monroe Garden Club. Among the lovely gardens visited were those of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mayo, Lakeside Drive; Mr. and Mrs. L. Slade Brown, Lakeside Drive; Dr. and Mrs. Cecil Jarrell, Emerson St.; and Mr. H. L. Woods, Hilton Street. Tea was served on the terrace in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hunter Thatcher, Jr., 501 Speed Drive.

Mrs. Mayo is concentrating her garden interest in surrounding her yard with shrubs in order to achieve the spaciousness of the lawn and preserve the view of the bayou. She has planted only one bed of flowers and bulbs that require constant care. A large terrace of pink brick with pink terrace furniture, at the water's edge, is a constant pleasure. Several steps, the complete width of the terrace, lead to the house which is also near the water. Dogwood trees and wild azaleas grow on the bayou bank.

Adjoining the Mayo gardens is that of Mr. and Mrs. Slade Brown. Both of these are new gardens, proving how much can be accomplished in only three years. Mrs. Brown has planted climbing red roses, Blaze, along the fence that divides the main garden from the service area. In the bed with the roses she has Dutch Iris, Sweet William, and Tulips. A terrace and barbeque pit that Mrs. Brown has built herself is located near the bayou bank. It is made of pink brick with aqua brick laid in the center. Near the terrace spring bulbs, purple phlox, daisies, and lilies bloom. The service area is enclosed by a high solid board fence. Of great interest is the unique strawberry patch. These plants are growing on a terraced mound of soil with graduated circles of aluminum holding each terrace in place.

Under the beautiful shade trees in Dr. and Mrs. Jarrell's garden bloom snapdragons, roses and delphiniums. The flower beds are edged with violets which also serve to hold the rich soil of the beds. A barbeque pit and patio of brick is located at the back of the lawn. Azaleas and camellias are planted along the brick wall at the side of the garden. Beautiful tulips and spring bulbs down each side of the front walk gave a warm welcome to visitors.

The Lambert Green fence that encloses Mr. Wood's garden forms a background for the cherry laurel that encircles the garden. Yellow and white and white spirals of the cherry laurel are planted in the garden with parallel to the water bank of the bayou. An elevated fish by the hostess.

Girl Scout News

What Scout can resist a cute little gadget like a tin can stove? Apparently not many. After the leader saw gingerbread cooked in a small can in a so-called hobo oven right before their very eyes in the meeting room at the Scout house, and the members of the Girl Planning Board saw the same demonstration, troops of all ages have been doing tin can cooking.

Four tin cans of various sizes, five roofing nails, a strip of corrugated cardboard and a few pieces of old candles are all that it takes for the ovens and for the fuel, too. Melted candle wax and a coil of cardboard in a small can makes the stove, while a small can of gingerbread rests on the nails hammered part way in to the top of the stove. An inverted coffee can makes the oven. All of you housewives who cook on shiny gas or electric stoves, just don't know what a thrill it is to eat something cooked on the little stoves.

We've heard of at least six troops using the idea or starting to make the stoves and buddy burners, as the little cans of fuel are called. Troop 34 cooked on them all over June Strauss' long driveway, troops 39, 35, 31 and 6 reported successful use and troop 10 and 11 spent their last meetings cutting air holes in the number 10 cans and making buddy burners. The school cafeteria got rid of their cans speedily these days.

Anyone passing the Girl Scout office these pretty afternoon surely has no doubt as to what place it is. Lots of days one can see green uniforms girls busily learning to make fires or cook. The office is not intended for an activity center, but it makes a good one for the activities that cannot easily be done at the regular meeting place.

Brand-new Girl Scout is little Debra Face who arrived Tuesday. Mother Jerry is leader of troop 41, a very active group of fifth-graders at Crosby School—congratulations to the happy parents!

Troop camping will come to the front during the next three months, we know. Ethel Easterling tells us that many troops have already put their dates on the calendar at the office. Troop 27 was at camp this week end with Mrs. N. L. Huckabee and Mrs. J. L. Malone. These girls, who are starting their sixth year of Scouting, never get enough of the out of doors, their leader says. There's always something new along that line!

Sounds as if the cookie sale is progressing nicely. But next week wonder how many of you will feel like Edgar Guest when he wrote:

"Now I've cookies in the carton and I've cookies in the jar. I have stuffed myself with cookies and I'll say that nice they are. But I'm sure I'll have cookies—if I manage to survive. When the Girl Scouts of the nation start their next year's cookie drive." We'll all be ready to eat them again next spring, we bet. Aren't they good?

Mrs. Robert Glenn Is Presented In Organ Recital In Fort Worth

Mrs. Robert Glenn, organist, of Fort Worth, Tex., was presented in master recital by the Southwest Baptist Seminary School of Sacred Music on Tuesday, April 15th.

Mrs. Glenn is a pupil of Arthur King. The program was as follows: Prelude and Fugue in D Major—Bach. Chorale Preludes — Brahms: Q World. I Must Leave Thee, O Sacred Head Now Wounded, O Blessed Jesus. Deck Thyself, My Soul, With Gladness. O How Blessed.

Faithful Spirits Are Ye. O God, Thou the Good, Helpful Lord. Apparition de l'Eglise Eternelle—Messiaen. Second Symphony—Vierne, Allegro. Attending the recital from Monroe was Mrs. Glenn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Camp, Sr. who were guests in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glenn. Mrs. Glenn, who is the former Bettie Jo Camp, of West Monroe, graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and received her bachelor of music degree from Louisiana Tech. Mrs. Glenn taught piano for some time and was pianist and organist for the First Baptist Church as well as being associated with other activities of church. She is a member of Musical Coterie. Most time is saved when a pressure cooker is used for foods that need long cooking—dry beans, for smoked tongue, cuts of beef that are not tender.

Barbara Elaine Wildey Weds David Edward Hartigan, Jr.

Wedding Of Former Monroe Girl Solemnized At Main
Post Catholic Church At Ft. Benning, Ga.

Of interest to friends in this section is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Barbara Elaine Wildey, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Russell James Wildey, of Ft. Benning, Ga., formerly of this city, and Lt. David Edward Hartigan, Jr., of St. Joseph, Mo., now stationed at Ft. Benning. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Edward Hartigan, Sr., of St. Joseph, Mo.

The marriage was solemnized Saturday, April 12, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the Main Post Catholic Chapel at Ft. Benning. The vows were heard by Chaplain Stephen Kane.

The bride couple exchanged the vows of the impressive service before an altar of graduated pots of Easter lilies flanked by baskets of gladioli and smilax. Multi-candelabra held slender Cathedral tapers. Pedestals of giant tapers flanked the four velvet kneelers. The pews were marked with white satin streamers.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. J. Herrin rendered several selections of nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her wedding gown of ivory skinkers satin in street length, fashioned with a full skirt with fitted jacket which featured the deep collar and cuffs. Tiny seed pearls were embroidered on white Chantilly lace over the rich ivory satin. She wore small pearl earrings, a gift of the groom, as her only ornament, and in her shoe she wore a sapphire borrowed from friends in Australia.

She carried a bouquet of white orchids, lilies of the valley on a Prayer Book covered in ivory satin with multi streamers of satin ribbon and tulle tied in clusters. Her veil of illusion was shoulder length and fell from a bandeau of ivory orange blossoms forming a cluster at each side.

Bridesmaids were Miss Betty Ann Phillips, of Nashville, Tenn., and Miss Virginia Hartigan, sister of the groom, of St. Joseph, Mo. They wore identical dresses of blue-green silk taffeta street length strapless dresses with which they wore matching stoles and shoes. Their hair headpieces were fashioned of tulle and their only jewelry were gold drop earrings, a gift of the bride. They carried mixed nosegays of spring flowers from white to shades of purple with long ribbon streamers.

Capt. John Thomas Rogers, of St. Joseph, Mo., now stationed at Sheppard Air Force Base, Wichita Falls, Tex., served the groom as best man. Ushers were Lt. Marvin L. Brannum, Lt. George Hartigan, Lt. John Hugenberg, Lt. Freddie R. Wenck, and Lt. John Hofus, all stationed at Ft. Benning.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Wildey, was wearing a benedictine shaded lace and crepe of street length with white flowered hat fashioned with shades of benedictine tulle. She wore a purple orchid corsage and coffee accessories. Mrs. Hartigan, the groom's mother, was wearing a navy blue street with hat of navy and forget-me-nots in shades of pink and blue. Her accessories were white and she wore a purple orchid corsage.

Reception
Capt. and Mrs. Wildey entertained with a reception at the main officers mess following the wedding ceremony.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white lace cloth centered with the three tiered wedding cake surrounded by pink carnations and flanked by five branched candelabra with white tapers. The bride couple used the bride's father's sabbat to cut the cake.

Mrs. Peter Dal Ponte and Mrs. John Hugenberg served at the bride's table.

Champagne was served from a wedding ring fashioned bar.

Summer flowers were placed at vantage points throughout the Corridor Room.

For her wedding trip to St. Simons Island, off the coast of Georgia, the bride was wearing a blue shantung suit with white trim and blue accessories. She wore the white orchid from her wedding bouquet.

OLD VIOLIN STILL IN USE

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Stanley Plummer, concertmaster with the Pasadena Civic Orchestra, is using a rare 207-year-old Guadagnini violin.

Plummer, also a music student at Pasadena City College, was loaned the violin by his private teacher, Vera Barstow, former concert violinist.

The instrument was made, Plummer says, in Placentia, Italy, by J. P. Guadagnini, a genius-craftsman of the 18th Century.

NEVILLE SENIORS TO PRESENT THREE ACT MYSTERY DRAMA

"Night Must Fall," the Neville High School Senior play, will be presented April 25th at 8:00 in the Neville auditorium. The price of admission is 40 cents for students and 60 cents for adults.

"Night Must Fall" is a three act mystery drama that revolves around a plot of murder and suspense. The students taking part in the play will step into rolls that require a great deal of acting ability. They will portray characters whose personalities vary considerably.

Johnny Clay will handle the leading roll of "Dan." Johnny has appeared in a number of Neville speech productions but in this play he will have the job of portraying a character that the audience will like at intervals and despise at other times.

Billie Marie Fincher will make her second appearance on the Neville stage, this time portraying "Olivia Grayne." Billie will play the part of a subdued young woman of 28. At all times on the stage her hair will be tied severely in a knot and she will be wearing horn-rimmed spectacles.

"Mrs. Bramson" will be played by Sandra McAdams who will be seen sitting in a wheel chair during the entire play except for a few shocking instances. "Mrs. Bramson" is a fussy, discontented woman of 52.

Raymond Wilenzick will make his debut as "Hubert Laurie." "Hubert" is the character who will add an amusing touch to this vivid drama.

Barbara Kelso will make her debut also, playing the role of "Mrs. Terence," another amusing character. "Mrs. Terence" is the only person in the whole plot who is fearless of what is going to happen.

Bobby Courtney makes his second appearance on the Neville stage as the "Lord Chief Justice." Bobby will portray the character who has the task of informing the audience of the before-hand events.

Elizabeth Cretney will make her first appearance in a Neville production as "Nurse Libby." She plays the part of a matter-of-fact north-country woman.

Will Johnson will play the inconspicuous "Belsize," who's suavity hides any amount of strength. This is Will's first play.

Betty Bamford will take the part of "Dora," who is the character that the whole plot revolves around. This will be Betty's fourth appearance in a Neville play.

Grace Episcopal Church Is Setting For Impressive Wedding Ceremony

Of interest throughout Louisiana and Mississippi is the wedding of Miss Margaret Evelyn Gardner, of Monroe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Berry Gardner, of D'Lo, Miss., and Charles Stocker Fontelleu, Jr., of New Orleans.

The wedding ceremony was held at the Grace Episcopal Church in Monroe on Saturday, April 19, at 7:00 in the evening. The Reverend Edward Farren Hayward, rector emeritus, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Acolytes were Ralph Troy and Jack Reitzell.

R. Frank Parker organist, accompanied the choir which sang Bizet's "Agnus Dei" and "O Perfect Love." The traditional wedding marches by Wagner and Mendelssohn were used as the processional and recessional.

Decorations for the candlelit altar and the sanctuary were white stock and greenery. The aisle of the church was lighted with tapers burning in single wrought iron candelabra.

Mrs. Jerald Randolph Boteler of Laurel, Miss., served her sister as matron - of - honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Yolande Louise Carter, of Memphis, Tenn.; Mrs. John Otis Clay of Monroe; Mrs. Mary Gardner Morehead of Baton Rouge; and Mrs. Louis Joseph Rosenbush, Jr., of New Orleans. They wore ballerina length dresses of pale yellow nylon net over taffeta with full circular skirts cut in three graduated tiers. The basque waists were designed with portrait necklines and three - quarter length sleeves. Their small close fitting hats and pumps were the same shade as the dresses, and they carried bouquets of blue Dutch lilies.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore the ivory satin bridal gown belonging to her sister, and worn by her in her marriage to Mr. Boteler. The basque waist featured tiny self-covered buttons down the back, a round yoke of illusion and alencon lace, and long sleeves which ended in lily points at the wrists. The full pearl grey flannel suit, with a white silk surah blouse, and a white milan pillbox trimmed in red and navy. Her corsage was of gardenias from her bridal bouquet.

After a brief wedding trip the couple will be at home in Monroe.

Among out-of-town guests for the wedding were: Mrs. Luther Mason, Mrs. S. D. Gore, Mrs. James Rives, Mrs. Albert Ledner, Mrs. William Perry Brown, Jr., and Mrs. George A. Stocker, all of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGaha, Jr. and Mrs. James C. Wilson, Jackson, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. Hope W. Little, Pinola, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. Leo D. Gardner, Miss Sara Randall Morehead, Mrs. F. E. Walker, Mendenhall, Miss.; Mrs. Clyde Morgan, Mrs. W. E. Bracknubush, Mrs. F. M. Cockrell, D'Lo, Miss.; Dr. Scott Heuer, St. Louis, Mrs. Theodore gathered skirt cascaded into a graceful train, and the finger-tip veil of illusion was attached to a small alencon lace cap. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies.

Little Denise Fontelleu, niece of the groom, was flower girl, and wore a floor length dress of white organdy over blue taffeta. She carried a bouquet of daisies, and wore a coronet of daisies in her hair.

Theodore James Fontelleu, Jr., served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Lon Stephens Heuer of Monroe, Archie Button Bland, William Perry Brown, Jr., and Albert Charles Ledner of New Orleans. Ushers were Jerald Randolph Boteler of Laurel, Miss.; Frank C. Breese, William Woodson Bassett, and Richard M. Troy of Monroe.

A reception followed at a downtown center. The reception rooms were decorated with arrangements of white California stock and greenery in tall floor baskets, and on the mantel. The brides' table was overlaid with a lace cloth, and was decorated with arrangements of gardenias. White tapers burned in triple branched silver candelabra and created an exquisite setting for the three tiered white wedding cake, which featured a bouquet of valley lilies on the top tier. Assisting in receiving was Mrs. Frank C. Breese, attired in a short formal dress of pink taffeta. Mrs. Gardner, mother of the bride, wore a floor length gown of grey Chantilly lace, and a small hat in harmonizing shades of lavender. She wore an orchid corsage. Mrs. Fontelleu chose a model of electric blue taffeta, worn with a matching hat and orchid corsage. Mrs. George A. Stocker, maternal grandmother of the groom, wore a rose colored formal, with harmonizing accessories and an orchid corsage.

Tea girls were Mrs. Lon Stephens Heuer, Miss Betty Roddey, Miss Betty Waddill, and Mrs. Paul Ransom. Mrs. D. H. Martin cut and served the wedding cake, and was assisted by Mrs. Henry Haas, Jr. and Mrs. E. T. Nicholls. Mrs. Theodore James Fontelleu, Jr., served punch, and Miss Mary Katherine Holcomb presided over the brides' book, and assisted the guests in registering.

way he did everything. He worked hard, and he relaxed hard. Because he took Christ with him into his fun, young people loved to be with him.

Like all great evangelical preachers Dr. Marshall said nothing new, but he said it in a new way. The huge congregations which regularly packed the church and overflowed into downstairs rooms were ripped anew by the gospel.

The senators, visitors in the gallery, the page boys, indeed the country as a whole came to look forward to the terse, punchy prayers given in the senate.

The sermons are addressed to the man he preferred to call "Mr. Jones," the multitude of little people in the world; to clerks, motorists, the students, butchers, and housewives. Here for them is the Master's Way, interpreted by a

Preventive Repair Saves Costly Home Bills Later

It's time to begin a check on the house for spring repairs. "Preventive maintenance" of trouble areas now will save major expenses later, the Tile Council of America advises. Here are some things to look for and correct:

HOME BILLS LATER

1. Replacement of plumbing can be costly, and many supplies are short due to government restrictions. If you notice that water is flowing too slowly through pipes, check them for rust, corrosion and other clogging. In some cases, a cleaning compound will correct the matter; in others, replacement of pipe sections may be required.
2. Wooden floors rot from continuous exposure to water, as in bathroom, kitchen or laundry. It is wise to protect structures under the floor by removing old, crumbling surfaces and replacing them with waterproof, long-lasting material such as clay tile using the same durable surface for wainscots.
3. Plan now to give the furnace or boiler a thorough inspection as soon as the heating season is over. Look for fire hazards and faults which waste fuel. Home owners are strongly urged to rely only on experts for this inspection.
4. If your kitchen or bathroom needs a lot of work, it probably would be wiser to "start from scratch" and undertake a complete remodeling job, including replacement of appliances, installation of easily cleaned and waterproof counters and work surfaces of clay tile, and rearrangement of facilities to provide for greatest efficiency.
5. Doors which fit badly, due to house settling or old age, are fuel wasters as well as exasperations. Warping, loose hinges, and sagging frames are some of the faults to seek out.
6. Heat losses as high as 25 per cent can result from improper weatherstripping. The past winter probably has shown which windows and doors are guilty, not only of wasting heat, but also of admitting extra dust and dirt.

No More Down Payment On Home Improvements

No money down and 6 months to pay. As far as the government is concerned, that's now the rule for financing home improvements. Regulation X of the Federal Reserve Board did require that a 10 per cent down payment be made, but that requirement has just been rescinded. The 36-month payoff period is retained.

Roofing, siding, and painting jobs on existing houses are among the kinds of work affected by the credit liberalization. Terms for completely new construction — the building of a house from the ground up — are unchanged. Addition of a room or two to an existing dwelling is considered an improvement, however, and no down payment is required.

Reroofing is one if the improvements expected to be made in increasingly large numbers. Fire-resistant asphalt shingles used for reroofing work usually can be applied directly on top of the old roofing material, reducing the overall cost of the job.

TWIN CITY PROGRESS REVEALED IN AERIAL VIEW

This recent aerial view of the Twin Cities is indicative of giant building programs which have reached more than $22 million since the Second World War.

Tremendous Progress In Twin City Building Reaches Value In Excess Of $22 Millions

A trip around the Twin Cities will give anyone ample opportunity to observe the tremendous progress, both in commercial and residential areas, which has taken place within the last seven or eight years. But very few residents realize that permits for construction of new buildings and repair of the existing ones amount to more than $22 million in value in excess of $22 million. And this amount, vast as it may seem, does not include the gigantic building programs now in progress or recently completed outside the city limits but in Ouachita Parish. Several years ago, the Brown Paper Mill started construction at its plant which ran into the millions of dollars. Earlier this year the Commercial Solvents Corporation began a $20 million increase and improvement program on its Sterling plant. Residential areas just outside the city limits have mushroomed in every direction.

New buildings in Monroe total 3,350 with a total valuation of $17,422,969 while 2,023 buildings, both residential and commercial, have received repairs in the past eight years. Total amounts of the repair permits have amounted to $2,284,168 during the same time.

In West Monroe since January of 1950, 410 permits for construction and repair have been issued totaling $2,785,820. Of this amount $2,054,775 was done last year and $160,850 in the first three months of 1952. These amounts were for both residential and commercial construction.

The largest single permit for construction issued in West Monroe since the first of 1950 was $1,450,000 which was issued to the Ouachita Parish School Board for construction of new schools, principally the West Monroe High School and the Woodlawn and Drew grammar schools, and repairs on the presently existing educational buildings. This permit was granted in July of 1951.

Similarly, last year was the latest year for building in Monroe and the surrounding areas. Permits for 394 non-commercial buildings and 82 commercial buildings were issued that year by San Aulis, building inspector. At the same time repair permits totaled 136 amounting to $1,044,584 and were also issued.

A look at the annual records for the building permits of the City of Monroe reveals a more-than-steady increase since 1944, when only 94 new buildings were constructed. The same year 187 permits for 394 non-commercial buildings and 82 commercial buildings were granted, which totalled $252,859. By the end of the next year and the termination of the war in Europe, the permits for new homes and commercial buildings had jumped to 212 with a valuation of $381,514. Meanwhile permission to repair edifices totaled 239 and amounted to $175,922. In 1946 with the end of the fight-

Home Modernization Takes Command Of Family Dollar

New cars and travel finished a poor second to home modernization in competition for the 1952 family dollar according to a recent national survey report.

Nearly 42 per cent of all families in a broad cross-section of the nation, both geographically and economically, reported plans for remodeling and repairing their homes in the near future.

The two places where remodeling dollars can show the most results are the kitchen and the bathroom. If these rooms are newly modernized, even the home 30 years old can hold its own in competition with new homes.

Most older houses have large kitchens which can be readily remodeled for greater attractiveness and convenience. Such modern materials as prefinished wallpanels to cover tired walls and ceilings can add that touch of color to completely transform the old kitchen.

Prefinished wallpanels to contrast with or match in color the new walls and ceiling can be utilized in finishing cabinet half-sections to divide up the big old kitchen into better organized, step-saving work areas.

Large, wall-sized sheets of prefinished wallpanels are now available at most materials dealers, and this versatile material with its durable baked enamel surface comes in a wide variety of colors and finishes.

most beautiful grain. Because of the thinness of wood veneer, adjacent sheets have matching grain figures. By the way in which the furniture designer arranges these, he can create the exact pattern he wants.

Desires Of Family Influence Design Of New Furniture

An American family's desire for "informal practicability" is one of the strongest influences on contemporary furniture design.

That term is used by a leading furniture designer, Ernest Swartz of Rockford, Ill., who says he strives for informal practicability and furniture that is light in scale. In general, the aims of Mr. Swartz and other designers are livability, practicality, warmth, good taste, functionalism, sound construction, and moderate price.

California designer John Keal emphasizes that a home must be a place for relaxation. Warmth and a hand-crafted look can be adapted to contemporary furniture, he says.

Simple, non-ornate treatment is characteristic of the best modern furniture styling. An understated look of luxury is imparted by hardwood veneers, one of the principal technical resources that designers have.

Wood veneers are cut from selected domestic and foreign logs. The men who "open" logs are specialists trained to decide how a log should be cut to reveal the most beautiful grain. Because of the thinness of wood veneer, adjacent sheets have matching grain figures. By the way in which the furniture designer arranges these, he can create the exact pattern he wants.

Mix Your Own Stains For Wood Paneling

By MR. FIX
(Distributed by NEA Service)

If you are planning to finish your upstairs or recreation room in natural wood paneling or perhaps re-finish existing paneling, you will have an interesting variety of stains to choose from.

Dark stains should be used only in large rooms as the dark walls have a tendency to make the small room even smaller. Don't expect to get the soft glow of the pine paneling to be found in hundred-year-old New England homes. This finish is the result of oxidizing of surface fibers by exposure to light and air for a long period of time.

Stains are divided into several groups, including oil stains, water stains, alcohol stains and acid stains.

A popular shade of oil stain is "pumpkin brown clear." Mix the burnt sienna in boiled linseed oil which has been thinned with turpentine, cool with a touch of ultramarine blue, apply and let dry for 24 hours, then seal with shellac and wax.

"Light red - brown oil stain is Vandyke brown with a spot of ultramarine blue in boiled linseed oil with Japan drier. Shellac, seal and wax.

"Yellow-brown" is made of yellow ochre mixed with boiled linseed oil and toned down with burnt sienna and ultramarine blue. Thin with gasoline anapynthid. Thin with gasoline and apply thin coat. Seal with two coats white shellac and wax.

"Tawny brown antique" is simply a coat of light oak oil stain followed by a coat of flat gray paint. Wipe off gray paint before it dries, wax.

Of the water stains, one of the most popular is "red - brown," which is no more than chloride of iron in water. First raise the grain by sponging with water, sand when dry, apply stain, sand again, shellac and wax.

An "English" finish is a thin coat of glue size colored with raw sienna, raw umber and a touch of Venetian red. After stain is thoroughly dry, wipe with damp cloth to soften tone. Seal with flat varnish or lacquer.

A popular acid stain is gray in color. Soak common nails in vinegar for 24 hours. Sponge the surface with water to which has been added a little of the vinegar. After surface is dry, sand and apply stain. Seal, sand and wax.

"Cafe au lait" is an alcohol stain whose color is derived from strong coffee. First seal the wood with a thin coat of clear lacquer over which the coffee is applied with cheese cloth. Blend and rub out with cheese cloth until the desired color is reached. Sand lightly and apply as an overcoat an alcohol stain made from alcohol - soluble fast scarlet, fast orange and jet black. Protect with wax.

Council Boosts Closet - Walls

Closet - walls would replace conventional door-in-a-wall closets if home - builders accepted recommendations of the University of Illinois Small Homes Council.

William H. Kappeler, research assistant professor of architecture, says ordinary closets are too expensive, occupy more floor area than necessary and often result in inefficient use of storage space.

These shortcomings are eliminated by closet - walls - or cabinet-walls or storage walls, as they are sometimes called. They can be built where load - bearing partitions are not needed. A closet-wall is simply a thick partition between rooms, providing storage for both sides. Wide doors open fully for easy access.

The Small Homes Council says closet - walls can be easily adapted for drawers, mirrors, desks, dressing tables, and radio and television cabinets.

Large closet - wall doors, either sliding or hinged provide opportunity for the use of handsome hardwood plywood panels. These look the same as luxurious wall paneling.

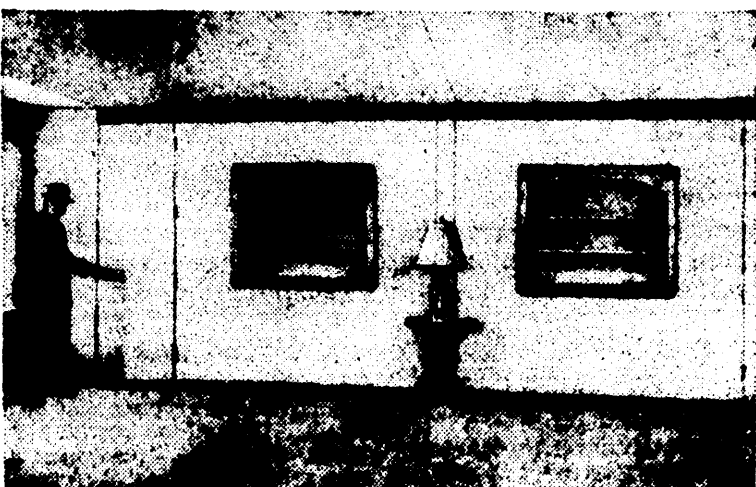

Hardwood plywood is faced with hardwood veneer in scores of different wood species with a wide color range. Most species are cut to show different types of wood grain figure - stripe, swirl, mottle, fiddleback, flake, wavy, ripple, and others. The kind of figure varies according to the kind of wood and the way it is cut.

Hardwood plywood is easy to keep clean. The face veneer is smooth and can be wiped off or waxed quickly.

Many finishing preparations are available in ready-to-use form, or you may mix your own preparation for that decorating job.

Low-Cost Home Has Disappearing Bedrooms

QUICK CHANGE—In the upper photo it's a living room. At night the wall sections swing out on casters to divide living room into two bedrooms.

FT. OGLETHORPE, Ga.—Contractor Dick A. Hunt says he expects soon to mass-produce modern two-bedroom homes for as little as $4,000 by using a patented disappearing wall.

By the day the wall, divided into two sections, forms one side of a 25x11½-foot living room. Behind the sections are 2-foot-deep closets containing chests of drawers and vanities. Disappearing beds fold into the closet side of the wall sections.

At night the wall segments swing out on ball-bearing casters to divide the living room into two 13½x12-foot bedrooms. Hunt says the house is constructed in such a manner that no heavy items of living room furniture need be moved in dividing the room.

Small panels in the mobile wall sections permit access to the concealed chests of drawers during the day. The house has a conventional kitchen, dinette and bath.

Large Closets Need Electric Lighting

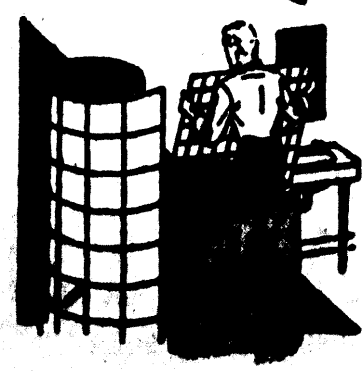

All closets with more than 9 sq. ft. of floor space, or deeper than 24", should be equipped with electric lights.

A switch in the door jamb, similar to that on a refrigerator, will turn on the light automatically when the door is opened.

HOME OWNERS QUESTION BOX

Q—What kind of shingles should be used on a roof with a very steep pitch?

A—All styles of asphalt shingles are suitable for a roof with a rise of four inches or more to each horizontal foot. Strip and individual asphalt shingles are made in a variety of shapes and colors. The variety of shapes enables the home - owner to pick out the pattern that will add most to the attractiveness of his dwelling. Attractiveness can also be increased by judicious choice from among the many solid and blended colors available.

Q—What makes a plaster ceiling fall?

A—Plaster falls because it gets wet. Water softens plaster, and soft plaster loses its grip on the lath. The water can come from a leaking roof or a leaking pipe. Because water can work its way unseen through the walls, its source is often far from where it appears.

Q—What is the best way to repair the crack where a concrete basement floor has pulled away from the wall?

A—Widen the crack to form a wedge - shaped groove. Pack the groove with a stiff mortar made of one part cement and three parts sand.

Q—How can a crack in cast iron be repaired?

A—With iron cement, which is sold in hardware stores. This comes as a powder and is mixed with water to form a thick paste.

Painting Furniture Individualizes Home

Today's paint-it-yourself trend born of a new freedom with color as well as the need to cut costs, has aroused a new appreciation of painted furniture.

Unpainted furniture in both modern and period designs is available for every room in the house. It is inexpensive and can be painted in colors to fit the room scheme and to express the originality of the homemaker.

A unified decorative effect can be achieved at small cost by painting furniture to repeat the colors of the room's drapery and slip - cover material - a floral chintz, for example.

The furniture might be painted to match the background color of the fabric; and molding, panels and drawer pulls painted in one of the flower colors of the fabric. This will make a delightful bedroom.

Birds Are Particular, Like Houses Just So!

Just like humans, birds differ on the type of home they want and its location. They like houses near sources of food and nest-building material, safe from their enemies and in a natural setting. Some birds like one type and location; others will accept only something entirely different.

Here are some generally-accepted specifications covering some of the common house-nesters:

The robin wants more of a shelter than a house, and he requires a wide entrance and exit. His dwelling should be fastened securely to a tree 8 to 15 feet above ground. Floor area should be 6 by 8 inches and the depth 8 inches. Bluebirds like a smaller home with a floor of 25 square-inch area, a depth of 8 inches, entrance of 1½-inch diameter and location on a pole elevated 6 to 10 feet.

Wrens will become free renters if the houses are mounted on low poles or posts and located near shrubbery. A square floor, 4 by 4 inches, is just right, and the depth may vary from 6 to 10 inches. Size of the opening is ½", with no perch on which bigger birds might keep Jenny or Johnny out.

A one-room house is not for the purple martin, who likes a "hotel." For martins you can build a four-family house according to a free plan issued by Masonite Corporation, 111 West Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill. Mount it 16 to 20 feet above the ground on a pole, away from buildings or tall trees.

The plan for this house specifies Masonite "V" tempered hardboard, a weather - resistant panel which Boy Scouts and other bird lovers use for constructing bird houses for all species. With light wood as a framework the tempered hardboard is used to create dry, attractive homes for birds. They can be painted any color; at least two coats should be applied - a primer and finish coat made for exterior use.

By noting the general specifications for the species which are house-nesters, the average Boy Scout or amateur handyman can build various clever bird houses and feeders. There are just a few pointers to remember when using hardboard:

Use the tempered kind, because it is weather - proof; always fasten the hardboard to the lumber framing, either with nails or screws; this material is very smooth and hard; it won't split, splinter or crack if properly applied.

Following are the floor area in inches, depth, entrance diameter and feet above ground preferred by other common house-nesters, as reported by Popular Mechanics:

Chickadee - 4x4; 8; 1½; 8 to 15; white breasted nuthatch - 4x4; 8 to 10; 1½; 12 to 20; tree swallow - 5x5; 8; 1½; 10 to 15; red-headed woodpecker - 6x6; 10 to 12; 2; 12 to 20; downy woodpecker - 4x4; 8 to 10; 1½; 10 to 20; flicker - 8x8 10 to 12; 2½; 15 to 20.

ing in Asia and the return of servicemen, construction, both in private homes and commercial property, began its steep ascent in the Monroe area. Permits for private homes totaled 311 that year and amounted to $700,000, which was an all time high at the time. One hundred and fifty - seven non - resident buildings were constructed and had a total valuation of $305,232.

Continuing its upward trend, and going well over the million mark, the 353 residents permits in 1947 amounted to $1,247,649, while the 137 non - resident or commercial buildings neared the $1 million mark by totaling $950,128. Permits for repair that year number 254 and amounted to slightly over the quarter million mark by totaling $258,214.

The following year, 1948, saw the largest jump to date in both the number and amount of building permits issued in the City of Monroe when a total of 503 were given for new buildings. The total amount of the permits was $1,980,615, or an increase of approximately $733,000. During the same period permits for the repair and remodeling of old buildings amounted to $211,492 for the 225 separate permits.

The largest annual increase occurred in 1949 when building permits for that year nearly doubled the previous one. Permits for both new construction and repair in 1949 totaled an unprecedented $4,031,599 while the previous year was $2,192,107. The number of permits issued in the record year, to that time, was 818, which included both categories. Broken down the figures read: new construction, 324 permits amounting to $3,668,978; repair and remodel, 294 and $362,620.

Although showing a slight decrease in the value, the permits for new construction in 1950 was up $7 to new high of 601. The valuation for the year's totals amounted to $3,470,279, or $182,700 less than the preceding period. However, in both number and amount the permits for repairs increased to 326 and $433,602.

Last year, with an unprecedented amount of construction, the valuation of new buildings totaled $4,446,084, with $3,596,120 of this being expended in the construction of residential property. Despite the amount for last year, there were 125 less permits of this nature than the year before. In the other category, repair and remodeling, 226 permits were issued amounting to $334,104, of which less than one - half or $137,484 was used for the 174 new residential buildings.

SOVIETS ADMIT AMERICAN'S TALENT!

MOSCOW (U.P.)—It was a Russian who really discovered Walt Whitman, so says Mikhail Melesov, critic for News, the Soviet English-language magazine.

"Whitman," he said, "was still a humble clerk in Washington, a writer whose literary efforts had not yet attracted wide attention when his 'Leaves of Grass' fell into the hands of Ivan Turgenev. Turgenev was, of course, one of Russia's great men of letters.

ORIENTAL, CLASSIC DESIGNS ENHANCE MODERN CARPETING

NOBILITY, above, a special design created expressly for the 1952 Carpet Fashion Opening Collection. April 21-30, is a wool carpet featuring an all-over scroll in cut and uncut pile. A classic type of design which lends itself gracefully and agreeably to many types of decor. The heavily textured surface is practical for a busy household masking casual surface soil and footprints.

The new Pacific Influence in contemporary home decoration is shown by the new bold pattern, TROPICA, made of 100% man-made fiber. One of the special designs for the 1952 Carpet Fashion Opening. April 21-30, this new carpet design will make its bow in thousands of retail stores during the important spring fashion event. The imaginative treatment of the leaf motif is heightened by the sophisticated colorings in a range of greens set against squares of taupe, beige and sand.

The charm of a hand applique characterizes DANAPONT, above. This handsome rather formal texture weave, a blend of wool and man-made fiber, comes in two designs, this over-lapped leaf motif and a formal scroll in not such high relief. As shown here in oyster white and cream, DANAPONT is a dramatic foil for the handsome dark furniture and flecked black upholstery fabric. A good choice for a formal modern or traditional dining or living room.

A smart geometric design enhances the textured surface of ZEPHYR, above, a carved woven cotton carpet. The deeply incised motif is achieved by dropping a row of tufts into the back. This carpet is even handsomer under foot traffic. It is available in 12 wonderful colors. Look for it in retail home furnishings stores during the 1952 Carpet Fashion Opening, April 21-30.

Furniture Pieces Now Coordinated; Suites Disappear

"Coordinated" furniture is replacing the old-fashioned living room, dining room or bedroom suite.

A coordinated living room group might contain 15 pieces—sofas, love seats, chairs, tables, book cases, cabinets—from which a purchaser can select exactly the ones he needs for a particular room. The pieces are designed so that any two or more will go together harmoniously.

In the process of achieving a coordinated design, most furniture companies rely on hardwood veneers for unity of appearance without sacrifice of individuality. Repetition of natural wood grain figuring in adjoining sheets of wood veneer creates a warm, rich appearance for one piece of furniture. This pattern is repeated in other pieces, becoming a common theme for the coordinated group.

Always put food, fat, or water into a glass utensil before heating it—don't pour liquid into a hot, dry pan. Before putting a glass utensil over direct heat, be careful to have the outside dry. Always set a hot pan on a dry surface and use dry pot holders.

How To Do It—

Power Tools Deserve Good Care

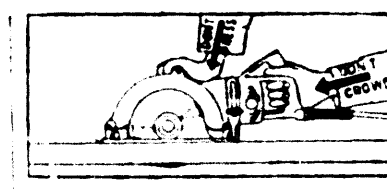

Power tool cords can easily be protected. When a cord must be laid in the path of traffic, lay two planks close together and run the cord between them. Avoid kinks and don't lay cords over sharp-edged materials. Don't carry a tool by its cord.

Cold Air Conduits

Air-conditioning or cold air ducts may be economically built of Masonite Presdwood, an all-wood panel. With the screen side exposed, nail the panels, either 2-1/2" or 3-1/2" thick, to 1 by 2-inch lumber to form the duct. The space between joints can form a cold air conduit in a residential heating system if a bottom is formed of Presdwood.

Presdwood retains many of the best characteristics of wood and has other "plus" advantages. Simple joints and curves are easily formed in Masonite hardboards. Leatherwood is a Masonite hard-board with a pattern simulating Spanish-grain leather.

In using an electric hand-saw, let the saw itself do the work. It's a mistake to try to rush a job. Don't press down on the top of the saw and don't crowd the saw by pushing it. A jammed saw overloads the motor, and motor repairs are expensive.

Black Tempered Presdwood does not show kicks and marks, so it's an ideal, heavy-duty kick-board.

All Masonite hardboards may be cut and worked with ordinary carpenter's tools.

Ends Gate Sagging

A sagging farm gate may be fixed by nailing to the boards, at the hinge end, two large triangular pieces of Masonite quarter-inch tempered hardboard, one on each side. This may be done without removing the gate. Just prop it up and apply the hardboard.

Efficient Home Workshop Proves Good Investment

By HENRY J. WINGATE

A bright, clean, efficiently-planned home workshop is one of the best investments a family can make. Considerable expense can be avoided by having a place to make repairs, turning out successful carpentry, cabinet jobs or similar hand-work.

This calls for good tools and pleasant working conditions. An 8'x10' corner of the basement, or 3'x6' space in the garage will serve. Only enough space is required in the garage for the workbench. The car can be run outside when a project is under way.

Bench Construction
The bench should be strongly built. Three 12" planks, 2" thick and 6' long, will make the top. Edges of the boards should fit tightly together. For especially smooth surface, a sheet of plywood can be screwed to the top of the boards.

Steel legs can be had at low cost. If wooden legs are used, they should be 4"x4" material, strongly braced and held together at the top by 2x4s to which the top of the bench is bolted. The bench top should be 36" to 40" above the floor for working comfort.

Tool Arrangement
Tools and material should be in easy reach. To save space, tools may be hung on the wall, with a definite place for each tool. Paint a dark panel on the wall above the bench, and on the panel, with white paint, draw an outline of each tool, to insure tools being put back where they belong. Spring clips of varied sizes from any hardware store will hold the tools.

Bench Should Be Level
Two or more drawers should be provided under the workbench to store materials and seldom-used tools. The bench should stand absolutely level in each direction, and fit snugly against the wall to prevent articles falling behind it. As good lighting is essential, the bench should be placed beneath a window, if possible, for both light and ventilation.

Modern Developments Make Kitchen Floor Care Easier
It's easier than ever for housewives to take care of their kitchen floors. Science has come to the rescue of the housewife with a number of new "wifesavers" which take the work out of floor care. The development of self-polishing wax was the first big step in this direction. This type of floor polish deposits a hard, smooth, shiny film of wax on the floor. Dirt doesn't stick to the wax film readily and can be easily removed—even by damp mopping. To apply self-polishing wax, a national wax manufacturer has developed a long-handled applicator. The wax can be spread evenly over the floor. Waxing floors with this applicator is as easy as dusting with a long-handled mop. Soft chenille pads on the applicator can be quickly removed after use and washed out.

This new applicator and a special economy size can of self-polishing wax is being offered at a reduced price by grocers and hardware dealers in the Twin Cities. The combination offer is being made by the manufacturer in a special "Cleaning Time Sale."

Short Pieces For Workshop

For the workshop enthusiast, a useful gift for any occasion is a package of hardboard short pieces which can be made into a variety of built-in home improvements or furnishings. Masonite Corporation markets such a package. It is known as Carit-Pak and is available at lumber yards.

Cedar Chest Goes Modern

Beefing from modern designs in hardwood veneer, the old-fashioned cedar chest has had its face lifted. In fact, the outside of it isn't even made of cedar. Beautiful enough to be used in any room, the chest shown above is faced with limed oak wood veneer with a polished finish. Adjacent sheets of the wood veneer have been matched to create continuous overall harmony of the delicate wood grain figure. In addition to the cedar storage compartment, three large drawers at one side provide separate space for storing smaller articles.

Real Wood Adds Real Beauty

Matched sheets of hardwood veneer serve as the door panels of the finest new television sets. One door will be almost, but not quite, like the other, while both gain their beauty from the carefully selected natural wood grain figure. No two television cabinets of real wood veneer will look exactly alike. Imitations of wood veneer, on the other hand, are made over and over again in an identical pattern. They do not possess the exclusiveness of appearance that nature, which never repeats itself, has given to genuine wood. The doors of the cabinet shown above are of crotch veneer, which was skillfully matched after being cut from the top of the tree trunk, just below the fork.

Window Screens Need Attention

A standard spring chore for most householders is to repair, paint and install window and door screens.

Simplest way to remove the winter's accumulation of dirt and grease from the mesh is to brush thoroughly with kerosene. When it evaporates, the loosened dirt can be washed out with the garden hose.

While copper and brass do not rust, these screens have a tendency to discolor light-colored trim and walls as rain drips from them. To prevent this, coat the mesh with thin varnish. Wipe the varnish on with a cloth or piece of old carpet, so that the mesh will not clog. Iron - wire screening should be protected with high-grade screen enamel, applied in the same manner.

If frames are weakened at the corners, they can be repaired with right-angled metal brackets firmly fastened with screws.

The final step is to paint the frames both to improve the appearance and to protect them from rot. Colorizer paint in any one of 1,232 shades is now available so that colors can be matched exactly. This painting is easy if the screens are placed end up on a box.

U. S. HAS VARIED TREE FORMS
A total of 1,177 different forms of tree — 862 species, 228 varieties, and 87 hybrids — grow in the United States, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

YOUR GARDEN:
There's No Substitute For A Beautiful Rose

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
(AP Newsfeatures Writer)

The rose is one flower known, loved and recognized the world over. There's scarcely a flower garden anywhere which doesn't sport at least one rose plant.

Roses have definite likes and dislikes, attract a wide variety of pests and require attention and care, but to anyone who has known the pleasure of a June garden of blooming roses, a garden without a rose of some kind is almost unimaginable.

Many Varieties

The rose family is a large one, and getting larger every year as new varieties are developed. They range from miniature rose bushes, under a foot high, through the bush roses — hybrid teas, floribundas and hybrid perpetuals — to the tall pillar roses, climbers and ramblers.

More than half the roses in American gardens are hybrid teas. They come in a variety of colors from pure whites and yellows to deepest reds. The bushes grow two to three feet in height and, except in the deep South, need protection from winter cold. They like very rich, well-drained soil and resent competition from other plants. If you're going to grow roses, it's best to have a rose bed. Don't try to blend them in with a variety of other plants.

Floribunda roses have been rising in popularity lately, particularly for hedging, bedding and for providing a flash of color in a dull spot. They are bush roses, bearing large flowers in clusters, bloom for a lengthy period, and are hearty eaters and drinkers.

Grow in Clusters

Polyanthas are small-flowered roses in clusters and the bushes require approximately the same care and are used for the same purposes as the floribundas. Hybrid perpetuals produce their big crop in June. They are close relatives of hybrid teas.

Ramblers are cane roses bearing clusters of small roses; climbers are canes bearing larger flowers. Rambler canes are plant; climber canes are stiff.

Holes should be dug deep and large enough to permit the roots to spread wide. Before setting in the roots, cut off cleanly any broken or bruised portions. When planting bushes in the spring cut the tops back to about six inches from the ground, leaving, if possible, a bud on the outside. In planting make certain the union point is an inch or so below the ground in most climates.

Water Required

Use water plentifully to settle the soil so there are no air pockets around the roots, and then fill the rest of the hole. For the first couple of weeks, mound dirt high over the plant to keep it from drying out.

Grass-Cutting By Power
Now An Accepted Idea

The almost unprecedented growth in power lawn mower sales from $4 million in 1941 to $93 million in past season has definitely established power mowers as a must for every home owner.

Because of the great number of manufacturers who have entered this rapidly expanding field, leading home and garden magazines have devoted considerable editorial space to advising home owners on what factors to consider when buying power mowers. In almost all cases the first point to consider is service follow-through. In this connection it has been stated that the inclination to "let tomorrow take care of itself" is a quite normal habit but a dangerous one when buying a power mower, because it's an attractive one and can be bought at a low price. Emphasis is placed on the fact that service and repair to power grass-cutting equipment is a highly specialized field. Leading manufacturers insist that their power mowers be sold through accredited, authorized dealers who are equipped to render service when needed, thus avoiding the pitfalls of "buying 'em wholesale." Other points include the suggestion that prospective buyers get an actual demonstration on his lawn rather than buying a "pig in a poke." This demonstration would answer the further need for determining just what type mower is best suited for the buyer's particular lawn.

From all indications, power lawn mowers—yesterday's gadget for the fortunate few—has taken its place along with the electric refrigerator, toaster, vacuum cleaner as an essential piece of domestic equipment in millions of American homes.

Plan Rooms From Floors Up; That's Decorators' Idea

The logical starting point in developing a new decorative plan for a room is the floor, according to leading interior decorators.

They say that planning a room from the floor up makes sense because from a decorative stand-point the floor serves as a frame for the furnishings.

As such, it is a basic feature and commands major attention. Tasteful planning therefore demands not only that a floor be attractive, but also that it harmonize with other elements. Practically should be considered, too. The floor should be one that is easy to keep clean and well groomed.

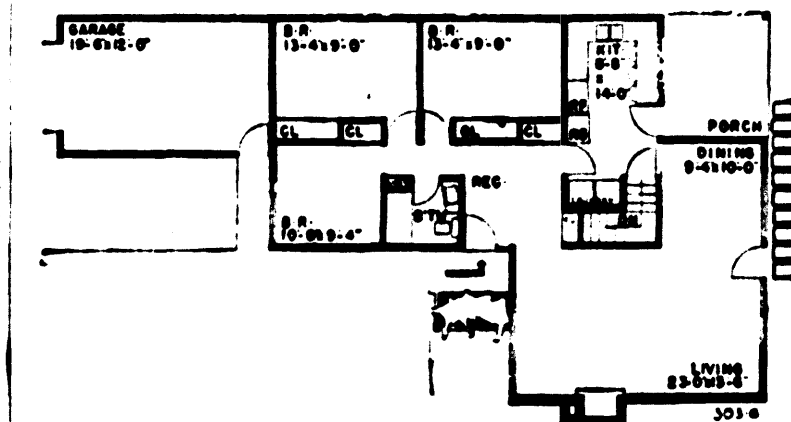

These fundamentals of successful room planning are executed especially well in the currently popular practice which utilizes the natural beauty of oak floors to fullest advantage. In this styling, a relatively large area of oak flooring is left exposed. Set off with attractive accent rugs, the gleaming oak blends well with traditional or modern furnishings of any color and additionally fulfills the requirement of easy care.

STUDENTS COMING HOME

JERUSALEM (AP)—Many Israeli students now attending foreign universities in Europe or the United States will have to return to Israel and continue their studies here, because the government cannot grant them the foreign currency needed.

The Hebrew University in Jerusalem and the Haifa Technion are prepared to enroll the "homecomers" provided that the government increases its yearly allocation. In exceptional cases, particularly where local scientific facilities are not sufficient, students may continue their studies abroad.

Rangy Plan Suits Small Lot

This home is low and rangy in the best contemporary style, but it is nevertheless well suited to a city lot as narrow as 45 feet. It is Plan 303-C of Walter T. Anicka, architect, 617 Forest, Ann Arbor, Mich.

The exceptional adaptability of the dwelling was achieved by designing it to run lengthwise on the lot, instead of crosswise. The garage is at the front.

The architect selected materials for the exterior that are economical, both in initial cost and maintenance. Asphalt shingles are recommended for the roof. Sidelights are of waterproofed cinder block, and the contrasting fireplace wall is of cinder brick.

Asphalt shingles are available in a great variety of professionally selected solid and blended colors, giving opportunity for expression of individual taste. The sparkling white sidewalls supply pleasing contrast. Both exterior materials are fire-resistant — virtually a necessity in modern construction. The interior is arranged around a central reception hall paneled in easy-to-clean hardwood veneers. The inside fireplace wall is paneled to match the reception hall, repeating the warmth and friendliness of natural wood grain. The wood grain motif is continued in all three bedrooms, where sliding closet doors are of hardwood plywood with attractively figured face veneers.

Floor area is 1,250 square feet, a figure useful in estimating construction cost.

Detailed building plans are available from Walter T. Anicka, 617 Forest, Ann Arbor, Mich. Refer to Plan 303-C.)

INSULATING BOARD DOES THE TRICK

Store's 'Back Room' Now a Charming Home

Here's one way to solve a housing problem. Where a new owner recently took over a small-town furniture store in Wisconsin he found the space more than ample for his merchandising needs so he made the back storage room into a charming home, using decorative insulating board to build new walls and ceilings. The results, after bare brick walls and exposed ceiling joists were finished with the versatile and economical material, are shown here. Rectangular ceiling tiles and vertical planks on the sidewalls built and decorated the living room (upper left). Dining area and kitchen (upper right) have ceilings of insulating board planks and square tiles, respectively. Ivory-tone planks give pleasant lines to the bedroom walls (lower right). The new materials insulate and quiet sound, in addition to building and decorating.

Dampers Control Spring Weather

Spring's mild but changeable weather can be expensive if close check is not kept on the home heating system. In homes with modern convector - radiators, it is economical as well as more comfortable to use the damper on each convector to control the heat flow in individual rooms.

For example, close the damper completely in rooms which are not in use. In other rooms, the heat can be controlled to precise comfort levels by opening or closing the damper as weather conditions change.

Dampers are optional equipment on most new convectors. They are manually operated and can be opened or closed at the touch of a finger.

Maintenance Rule: Inspect Your Roof

A good home maintenance rule is to make a thorough inspection of the roof in the spring. The purpose is to detect any winter damage before it becomes serious enough to cause harm to the rest of the building or its contents.

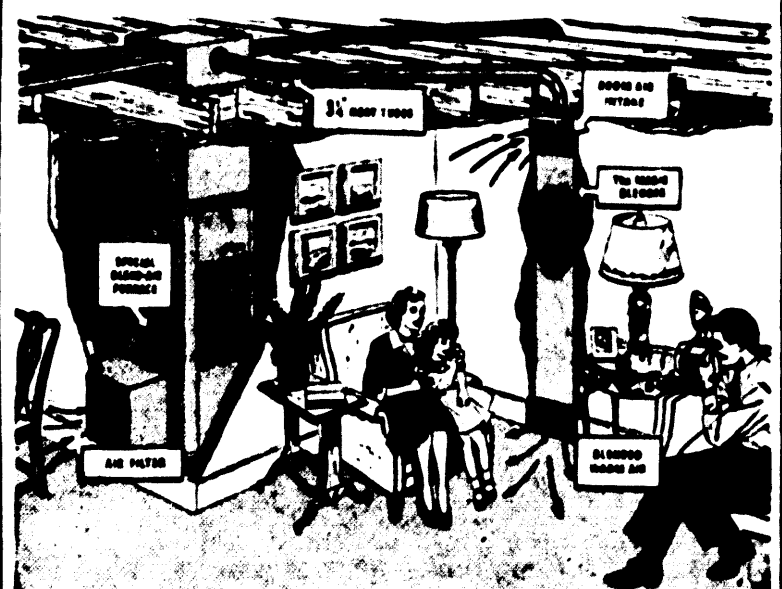

Patching an old roof is seldom advisable. Most roofing wears uniformly, and the first leak is a sign that others probably will develop soon. In fact, climbing on an old roof to patch it often causes other leaks.

An economical way to reroof is with asphalt shingles, which usually can be put on without removing old roofing. The asphalt shingles are put on top of the worn material, saving the expense of removing the old roof.

Miss Carolyn Trunk To Wed Thomas Faulk Flournoy

May Wedding Will Be Solemnized In Cincinnati, Ohio

The engagement of Miss Carolyn Trunk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trunk of Avondale, suburb of Cincinnati, Ohio, to Thomas Faulk Flournoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Flournoy of this city, has been announced by her parents. The wedding will take place in Cincinnati, on May 9th.

Miss Trunk was graduated from the College of Applied Arts, University of Cincinnati, where she was affiliated with Delta Phi Delta.

Mr. Flournoy attended Principia College, Louisiana Institute of Technology, and received his degree in Electrical Engineering from Louisiana State University, where he was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha. He has served two years in the armed forces. Mr. Flournoy is an engineer with the Allis Chambers Mfg. Co. in Cincinnati.

TWIN CITY CONCERTS TO PRESENT MISS LILY PONS

Lily Pons, the greatest coloratura of her time, will appear at the Neville High School auditorium, Tuesday night, April 22nd. Miss Pons, who is being brought to Monroe by the Twin City Concerts, Inc., is one of the most famous artists in all of operatic history.

With her spiraling success, won by her lovely voice, her genuine dramatic ability, her exquisite taste in gesture and costume, came the revival by the Metropolitan since Miss Pons' debut there of operas which had been lost to the repertoire for lack of a prima donna — "La Sonnambula," "Lakme," "Linda di Chamouni," "Le Coq d'Or," and "La Fille du Regiment."

For years Miss Pons had wanted to play the role of Marie in "La Fille du Regiment" — the flirtatious, gay daughter of one of Napoleon's regiments. But the opera had not been sung here for 25 years and at first the Metropolitan was wary. Instead of being outdated and worn, however, the opera met with outstanding popular success when it was finally produced. Fashionable New York adopted the ingenious, Valentino costumes which Miss Pons wore in the opera. Brass buttons, red, white and blue, clever military gadgets, flashed in and out of the smartest bars and restaurants. The gay, adorable Marie proved to be one of the most endearing characterizations in the entire Pons repertoire.

The operatic roles Miss Pons has played range from the doll Olympia in "Tales of Hoffman," one of the first grand opera parts she learned, to her famous performance in "Lakme," second only to her Lucia in popularity. Audiences crowd to hear her Gilda in "Rigoletto," her Philine in "Thaïs," "Mignon," and the capricious Rosina, heroine of Rossini's "The Barber of Seville."

But it is in "Lucia," her favorite opera and the one in which she made her American debut, that Lily Pons reigns supreme as the queen of the coloraturas. No one has matched her outpouring of lovely tone and inspired performance as Lucia and at the Metropolitan this opera has come to be known as "Lily di Lammormore."

Miss Pons eagerly acknowledges her debt to the composer Donizetti, who has provided her with her most ideal roles. Donizetti's love for the flute-like voices of ladies was no fluke. Above High C has resulted in the creation of Lucia di Lammormore, Linda di Chamouni, Adina ("Elixir d'Amore"), Norina ("Don Pasquale"), and Marie ("The Daughter of the Regiment").

The cadenzas, the trills and appoggiaturas that Donizetti wrote are difficult but technically extremely gratifying and of immediate effect. They offer a challenge that now only Lily Pons meets with triumphant and unflinching success.

Lily Pons is one of the few prima donnas who would have been a great actress if she had not become a great singer, and who is equally happy on the stage while performing her sad fate or playing pranks on some of her colleagues. Therefore the Donizetti repertoire, from an acting angle, is ideal, for it offers her talents the complete range from the Sarah Bernhardt type of vehicle to the "Lillian Russell" type. For example, in "The Daughter of the Regiment," she washes horses in the first act and defends the minut in the third.

In "Don Pasquale," one minute she pretends to be a shy maiden just out of a convent and the next she throws a temperamental fit; while in "Lucia" she faints with emotion after signing the marriage certificate and stabs herself after going insane. American audiences are indeed grateful to Lily Pons for bringing these vivid heroines to operatic life again.

LION CUB SENT TO ZOO BUFFALO, N. Y. — "The cub is six months old now and doesn't know its own strength." For this reason Mrs. Sidney Lewin thinks she made a wise decision in sending the little lion to the zoo. She said Sheba was given to her son, Donn, a professional wrestler, while he was "campaigning" in Texas in December. Donn and his wife, Harriet, used to take Sheba out for walks on a leash. At home, the "kitten" would play with their German shepherd dog. But Mrs. Lewin thought the cub was getting too big to play with her 18-month-old grandson.

Mrs. P. A. Poag Hostess At Opera Club Meeting

Year Books Distributed At April Event; Members Plan Final May Meeting

Mrs. P. A. Poag offered the hospitality of her attractive home for the recent meeting of the Opera Club, and with Mrs. L. V. Tarver as co-hostess extended many courtesies to members and guests.

Various spring flowers in all their intrinsic beauty, gathered from the gardens of the hostesses adorned the reception rooms. The dining table overlaid with handsome linen cut-work cloth of beautiful design was centered with a striking arrangement of rainbow gladioli in an Easter nest of greenery; miniature bunnies, chicks and myriad colored eggs emphasized the glorious spring theme. Delicious refreshments, an assortment of open-faced sandwiches and sweetmeats further emphasized the gay Easter colors. Mrs. Duncan Smith graciously presided at the coffee service.

A short business session was held with Mrs. Smith, president, in the chair. At this time plans were perfected for the final club meeting for the year. As customary an open meeting is held in the evening. Mrs. W. M. Montgomery and Mrs. R. O. Ware will be hostesses for the occasion; the meeting to be held in the gardens of the Montgomery home.

New year books were distributed and the meeting was given over to the program chairman, Miss C. W. Caraway who introduced Mrs. B. B. Martin and the opera study for the day. Mrs. Martin in her own inimitable way gave the story of Die Fledermaus by Strauss. Mrs. Martin fairly glowed with the story, the kernel of which is the arrest of one person in mistake for another, the

Jena Garden Club Of Urania Meets

Tuesday afternoon, the home of Mrs. B. T. Gallaher in Jena, La., was the setting for a most interesting meeting of the Jena Garden Club. Instead of the regular topic of flowers, the afternoon thought was centered around antiques.

Each one present had brought an antique to show and told the history of each article, which proved to be varied; a hat pin dish; fluting irons; a spoon dish; an old album; plates; an old medicine kit with some of the medicine still in it; cups and saucers; bowls and jewelry. The highlight of the evening was when Mrs. L. A. White of Natchez, Miss., was presented, wearing a beautiful antebellum costume of purple velvet and French lace. Mrs. White is a dealer in antiques and had with her some rare pieces of china and glass. She explained that some of the glass had so many colors, because the glass was made in many different layers and as each layer was cut into, a different hue was produced. Mrs. White also talked on some of the antiques in Mrs. Gallaher's collection, figurines, a marble fireplace, a crystal cornucopia; a lava bowl, an old lap robe, oriental rugs and a cathedral chair, formerly owned by the Duchess of Windsor.

The tea table was laid with a lovely lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and greenery. Mrs. W. S. Eiland presided at the silver coffee service, while Mrs. Bob Owens was at the tea service.

Attending were: Mesdames T. J. Kendrick, T. S. Butler, Howard Davis, C. I. Humphries, Jack Luttrell, L. M. Kinmer, Frost, Swackhammer, Bob Owens, O. J. Evans, Neely Butler, W. S. Eiland, Sonny Owens, Claude Davis, J. I. Seals, E. R. Brethaupt, C. R. McGuffin, R. M. Reeves, L. A. White, Q. T. Hardtner, M. A. Tannehill, C. M. Newsom, C. E. Tannehill, W. C. "In 1888 through the generosity of Mrs. Josephine Louise Newcomb, H. Sophie Newcomb Memorial College, New Orleans was founded and so named in memory of the founder's daughter. L. B. V. school was founded in 1850 as every resident in East Carroll, was praised for her information and influence to rural women, and her participation in a meeting of rural directors in Stockholm.

Calabrian production of essence of bergamot, extracted from the pear-shaped citrus fruit of the tree, is about 34,000 tons annually.

PRAYER PERIOD FOR SOLDIERY

April 25 - 27 Set As Time To Seek Almighty Aid For GI's

During religious services throughout the week end of April 25 - 27 special prayers for the safety and well-being of all Louisiana National Guardsmen on active military service in Korea, Europe and elsewhere will be said, Brig. Gen. Raymond F. Hufft has announced.

He said Lt. Col. Paul R. Moore, 38th Infantry Division chaplain, is in charge of the program which is being coordinated with the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish churches throughout the State.

This National Guard "day of prayer" was suggested by Maj. Gen. Roy H. Parker, Chief of Army Chaplains, who has issued an impressive prayer for use by ministers and by unit commanders and their troops.

Three Louisiana National Guard organizations — the 73rd Tank Battalion, 122nd Light Bombardment Squadron, and 135th Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron — and many individual Guard officers are now on active duty. Chaplain Moore has asked all members of the Louisiana National Guard not on active duty to attend services next week end in uniform at their respective houses of worship and join in prayers for their fellow soldiers on active duty.

Unit commanders are also expected to lead their units in prayer during next week's training sessions. The prayer, prepared by General Parker:

"Our graciously Heavenly Father accept our gratitude for all who have served our beloved country with loyalty and devotion so that the freedoms we cherish have been preserved to us. Thou alone knowest all the heroic and self-sacrificing deeds which they have performed. Many of these did not count their own lives dear, and now rest from their labors.

"As we remember all our service personnel before Thy throne, we make special intercession for the thousands of National Guard members. Extend over these citizens — soldiers who have answered the call to duty Thy protecting hand and, if it be Thy will, return them safely to their homes. For those patriotic Guardsmen to whom the call has not yet come, fill them with courage and consecration that in the hour of need they shall not be wanting. Instill in us the same measure of devotion that we may express our gratitude to them by our loyal support. Give success to the endeavors of the various Guard units as Thou dost use them in bringing to naught the forces of darkness and in maintaining a nation which is striving to serve Thee. In Thy Name we pray, Amen."

General Hufft said this "day of prayer" is strictly voluntary but urged every Guardsman in Louisiana to join in praying for the safety not only of Louisiana's Guardsmen but for the safety of some 150,000 National Guardsmen now on active service with the Army and the Air Force.

Mrs. Brown spoke briefly on "Fine Arts" and introduced Mrs. W. C. Christian of Vicksburg, the special speaker who gave an appreciated talk on several phases of art in which she emphasized the value of creative work and the pleasure to be derived from it. The creative art display was under the program when the hostesses, Mrs. Alice Engleton, Mrs. G. L. Garrison, Mrs. E. O. Edgerton, Mrs. H. P. Gaspard, Mrs. Olice Emory, Mrs. John Devine and Mrs. A. L. Sevier served delightful refreshments.

MRS. GEORGE SNELLINGS SPEAKS

AT READER'S CLIQUE MEETING

Mrs. Evans Ethridge was hostess to the members of the Readers' Clique at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club Thursday afternoon.

A short business meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Ivy Jordan. Reports from different committees were heard. A revision of the constitution was read by Mrs. Edwin Crowley and the club voted to accept it as read. The members voted to buy a record player for the honor cottage at Louisiana Training Institute.

Mrs. Ethridge introduced the guest speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. George Snellings. Mrs. Snellings gave a very interesting and informative talk on "Cotton." She said in part: "In place where cotton is extensively cultivated the following varieties are commonly distinguished, Sea Island, or long staple cotton, the finest of all is distinguished by its black seed and the fine white long staple by which it is surrounded. This cotton only grows in certain regions, and because of its capacity and its desirable qualities it commands a high price. The upland commonly called the green seed variety, is by far the most useful and important.

The cotton was gathered by hand until recent times by machinery on up to date plantations. After the reconstruction period in the South, the establishments of cotton mills near the cotton fields and a system of cultivation by small farmers, rather than on great plantations as in slavery times, gave American cotton and American cloth a new ascendancy.

Before the invention by Eli Whitney of the cotton gin, the removal of the seed by hand was a slow and tedious process. In recent years the cotton picker eliminated much of the labor which had so long been necessary."

The hostess served delicious refreshments to the following members: Mrs. A. G. Olcott, Mrs. Burl Hollis, Mrs. Pete Coats, Mrs. G. L. Morgan, Mrs. Fred Parrish, Mrs. Henry Mequet, Mrs. Sidney Gill, Mrs. Edwin Crowley, Mrs. Ivy Jordan, Mrs. Raymond John, Mrs. James Schonlau, Mrs. Harrell Webster and Mrs. George Snellings.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Good Defense Does Not Always Work

By Oswald Jacoby

Written for NEA Service
Shed a tear for poor East in the hand shown today. He made a very natural defensive play, and South very treacherously took advantage of him.

West opened the queen of diamonds, and dummy won with the king. South obviously had to lose a trump trick, so his contract depended on guessing which opponent had the queen of hearts.

The South player happened to be Larry Lou, who pretends a sure thing to a guess. So he proceeded to turn the play into a sure-thing proposition.

At the second trick he simply led the jack of spades from the dummy. This simple play had far reaching effects.

East quickly, but not too quick.

ly, played his low spade. He hoped that South lacked the queen of spades as well as the ace, in which case declarer might let the jack of spades ride for a losing finesse.

This was a fairly natural defensive play, but it backfired disastrously. When the jack of spades won the second trick, Larry Lou led a diamond to dummy's ace, ruffed a diamond in his hand, cashed the top clubs, and ruffed a club in dummy.

This series of plays stripped the diamonds and clubs out of declarer's hand and the dummy. Now Lou led a second trump, giving East his ace.

What could East do at this point? If he returned a heart, Lou would get a free finesse. If East returned anything but a heart, dummy would ruff while Lou discarded a heart. Either way, of course, declarer had the rest of the tricks.

If East had stepped up with the ace of spades at the second trick, he could have exited safely with a diamond, a club, or his remaining trump. Then South would have had to guess the heart situation for himself, and the wrong guess would have cost him the slam.

Card Sense
Q—The bidding has been:
North East South West
1 Spade Pass 2 Hearts Pass
3 Diamonds Pass ?
You, South, hold: Spade 9, Hearts A-Q-J-9-5, Diamonds Q-10.

7-6, Clubs 3-2. What do you do?
A—Bid four diamonds. This is the logical, obvious bid. If your partner has a real diamond suit, he will go on. If he has heart support, he will show it.

TODAY'S QUESTION
The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spade 9, Hearts A-Q-J-9-5, Diamonds Q-10-7-6, Clubs A-3-2. What do you do?

REVEREND HALL FOR HIGH GOAL

Wants 100 Per Cent To Attend Sunday School Today

Rev. Luther Hall, well known pastor of the First Baptist Church in Farmville, who is aiding in the highly active revival campaign now in progress at the First Baptist Church in West Monroe has set a goal for Sunday School today.

The registration in this school is 477 and he is out to get a 100 per cent attendance this morning.

A large number is expected to attend both Sunday School and church this morning. The sermon topic at the morning service will be: "How To Begin the Christian Life." Many are coming from as far distant places as Farmville to attend services and to thus pay tribute to their pastor, Reverend Hall.

Rev. A. T. Mitchell, publicity director for the simultaneous revival campaign, states that the present crusade up to Thursday night in Baptist churches of the parish have had 195 conversions reported. Of the number 129 were candidates for baptism and 66 will unite with churches by letter.

The results of the week, he said should go far past 200.

LOCAL TEACHER TO CONFERENCE

Miss Eleona Brinsmade To Attend Work Session In Baton Rouge

Miss Eleona Brinsmade, visiting teacher of the Monroe city schools, will attend the fifth annual spring work conference for visiting teachers to be held at Louisiana State University, Monday through Wednesday, April 21 - 23. Miss Brinsmade has served the Visiting Teachers Association of Louisiana for several years as secretary-treasurer and will take an active part in the work conference which has for its theme — "Improving School Attendance and Life Adjustment for All Children and Youth."

By Helping School Personnel, Parents, Pupils, and the Public to Recognize Their Respective Responsibilities.

Dean E. B. Robert of the College of Education of the university and Dr. Turner Pierce, director of the southern states cooperative program in educational administration, will make keynote addresses. The general acceptance by the Monroe city schools of the fact that the whole child comes to school has led to a program where by parents, teachers, administrators, and the community groups plan together for the facilitation of normal growth and development as the major objective of the schools.

The home-visitation program of the city schools has been one of the outstanding methods of implementing the objective stated above. Miss Brinsmade has discussed this plan at the past two annual conventions of the National League to promote school attendance, held in Richmond, Va., and Wichita, Kans. Complete data on the plan have been requested by Frank Hubbard, director of research of the National Education Association of the United States. News articles have appeared in Nation's Schools, Education Summary, both magazines of national circulation, in addition to numerous state and local periodicals and newspapers.

Orchid Plants In Full Bloom At Foster's Greenhouse

Dr. Edward Foster And Dr. Katherine Foster Have Forty Species In Orchid Collection

Several months ago Dr. Edward Foster and his wife, Dr. Katherine Foster, started a fascinating hobby, that of growing orchids. Their hobby started as pot plants in their home, later adding a bay window for their collection and now a greenhouse where they have over a hundred orchid plants.

Edward and Katherine started their collection with mature plants, as growing orchids from seed is a slow process, and they require most careful handling. One average, 4 to 8 years are required for seed to bloom.

Several plants in the Foster greenhouse are now in bloom in their delicate shades of purple. One in particular of exquisite beauty is the white orchid with the deep purple throat. The Foster's grow cattleya hybrid orchids, which is a cross between various Cattleya orchids. They have over forty species in their greenhouse. Those in bloom now include "Serene," "Memling X Remcholet," "Prospector," "Tellus," which has four to two stems, and the "Torton X Annie J. Lines."

Dr. Edward Foster advised only watering the plants once a week and keeping the temperature 62 degrees at night and 100 degrees during the day. Dr. Foster sprays a fine spray of water once or twice a day if hot and dry. Orchids need plenty of fresh air and light. Too much sun will cause the leaves to sunburn and later die. Dr. Foster also states there are over 15,000 species of orchids including the spray orchids which are grown in Mexico and in the mountains of South America.

Blooms on the plants will last two to four weeks according to Dr. Katherine Foster, and each hybrid plant will bloom several times a year. The species plant only blooms once a year. The orchid bloom takes from four to five days to develop full color and fragrance. The Foster's have twenty-eight orchid plants blooming at one time with five blossoms on one plant. White, yellow and purple plants are among the colors grown in the greenhouse.

Grown under good conditions, orchids double in their size every two years. They are then transferred into larger pots or they may be split up and made into two plants.

The Cattleya orchids grow without soil. They are grown in a special fibrous material called Osmunda. This material is the root of a tropical fern found in the Florida Everglades, Australia, Hawaii, and a few other places.

The orchid plant is becoming more popular every day as house plants as they require little more care than that required by the average house plant.

Interesting to note about growing orchids is the fact that they are not parasites as most people believe. An orchid will cling equally as well to a pane of glass, a piece of tile, or a stone. If proper portions of water, sunlight and air are given the plant, it will grow on anything. An orchid simply holds on for support. In the case of the Foster's, a potting stick is used.

Although with proper lighting and watering, the orchids may be grown in the house, the Foster's find their greenhouse a convenient place for their hundred plants. The orchids plants are placed on strips of wood above a pan where sphagnum moss or other suitable material may be used to hold an abundance of water. This gives the plant constant humidity by the evaporation of the water through the moss.

Dr. Katherine Foster advises spraying the orchids daily and watering only once a week. "Light is also important to the orchid," states Dr. Katherine Foster, "but in the form of filtered sunlight. An orchid plant must never be exposed to the direct rays of sun either out in the open or through clear glass."

The Foster's greenhouse is devoted especially to orchids. It can be easily heated in the winter, a naturally moist atmosphere is maintained and at all times of the year, a carefully controlled free circulation of air is secured.

Dr. Katherine Foster, a member of the Welcome Garden Club, will place her orchid plants on display at the Flower Show sponsored by the Garden Club. The show will be held at the Youth Center at the Methodist Church in West Monroe on April 24th.

The Dr. Foster's cordially extend an invitation to anyone interested in seeing their lovely orchid plants in bloom, to call by their home at 814 North Fourth St. in West Monroe.

NOW

In this poster, three YWCA members lock arms in friendship to celebrate National YWCA Week, April 20-26, when the YWCA in this community will join with 430 other YWCAs over the United States to enlist new members and tell the story of their work with women and girls around the world.

Y. W. C. A. TO OBSERVE FIFTH
NATIONAL WEEK IN TWIN CITIES

This week the Young Women's Christian Associations throughout the country observe their fifth National Y. W. C. A. Week. In the Twin Cities and in hundreds of other communities in the nation, over three million Y. W. C. A. members will celebrate this annual observance with an intensive membership drive built around the slogan "On your own — but not alone — Join your Y. W. C. A."

The slogan expressed the Y. W. C. A.'s philosophy in relation to the young women and girls with whom it works — the belief in the right of every individual to be himself, respect for the dignity of each personality, and the assurance of fellowship with others who work together for the common good.

Founded in 1855 as a "ladies' prayer circle to pray for and guide the working girls away from home," the Y. W. C. A. in the nearly 100 years since, has grown into an international organization with a program designed to meet the needs of women and girls from 13 to 35. Today in 431 communities and 657 student associations in this country, along with thousands of others in 65 lands abroad, it offers a program of revitalizing activities for its members.

To many of us the Y. W. C. A. means a swimming pool, a cafeteria, or a residence for working girls, but a visit to any Y. W. C. A.

in the land will show that it offers far more than the use of physical or material equipment to its members. From its first typing courses, begun in 1885, it now offers classes in a variety of subjects from cooking to Portuguese, public speaking to world affairs. Nor does it stop there, for through its Christian emphasis, for discussion groups and training courses it develops better citizens and leaders in social and civic welfare. In short, whatever the needs of young women in any particular time, the Y. W. C. A. endeavors to meet them and in doing so opens the door of new interests, broader tolerance and an opportunity for growth in the Christian way of life.

The Y. W. C. A. has come a long way in the past century in broadening its program but it has never lost sight of its original founding purpose — "To build a fellowship of women and girls devoted to the task of realizing in our common life those ideals of personal and social living to which we are committed by our faith as Christians." It welcomes women and girls from every walk of life, encourages them to grow into effective personalities, to make the most of what they are, and at the same time find friends who will work with them as a force for good in the community.

Student Art Exhibit Now
Being Held At The Art Shop

Drawings, Paintings, Etchings And A Number Of Other Mediums Prove The Most Interesting Exhibit Yet

The exhibit of children's work now showing promises to be one of the most interesting events of this kind. There is an unexplainable attractiveness about the two hundred odd paintings which impels a certain wonderment. There are one-eyed cyclopes, fantasies, and naive drawings which lead an adult to reminisce back to the days forgotten.

Of special interest is the fact that the paintings are placed chronologically so that on entering, the youngest works may be seen first, with each progressive composition representing a step in age and intellectual growth.

The numerous works shown were accumulated from both parish and city schools through the untiring efforts of Mrs. Mary Dowling, Mr. Willard Carpenter, Miss Birdie Hutton, and Mrs. John Platt. Other works included in the collection were derived from the students of The Art Shop under Miss Letta Mae King, and also from the private students of Mrs. Mary Dalton.

The exhibit will continue through the following week, but the public is welcomed to see this unusual showing this Sunday, April 20, from the hours of 2 p. m. to 6 p. m. at The Art Shop, 309 Louisville Ave.

Miro Book Club Meets
With Mrs. W. M. Greenwell

Mrs. D. M. Moore Is Elected President At April Meeting Of Book Club

The regular meeting of the Miro Book Club was held in the home of Mrs. W. M. Greenwell at 2:30 P. M. Monday afternoon with thirteen members present.

Mrs. B. L. Mulhern presided over the meeting first leading the reading of the collect and secondly the salute to the flag. The convention of the fifth district held in Rayville, March 29, was vividly brought to the attention of members as Mrs. Mulhern gave a detailed and most interesting report of the event. The Miro Book Club was named one of the outstanding clubs and received a white ribbon on the year book, also tied with the Cosmos Club of Ruston for general work accomplished during the year. Mrs. J. H. Pankey from Ferriday was elected district president, succeeding Mrs. L. R. Westburg who has served the fifth district creditably for the past three years.

The Miro Book Club had previously voted on the resignation of Mrs. W. M. Greenwell who will soon make her home in Texas. Mrs. Greenwell, who was one of the club's pioneer members, will be greatly missed in club circles, and it was with reluctance, the club accepted her resignation.

Mrs. Roy Cole was voted a new member. The club welcomed Mrs. Cole as a worker in their midst and are delighted with the prospect of such an active member.

Mrs. D. M. Moore, newly elected president, named her committees for the coming year. They are: Parliamentarian, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern; American Home, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell; education, Mrs. George Temple; fine arts, Mrs. Irving J. Wolff; legislation, Mrs. Neal McHenry; international relations, Mrs. J. W. Murphy; national defense, Mrs. Thos. Jett; public affairs, Mrs. A. B. Myatt; child welfare, Mrs. R. L. Wood; club woman, Mrs. F. L. Smith; safety, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell; youth, Mrs. A. L. Peters.

Mrs. Moore asked each committee chairman to accept their particular assignment with interest, in order that we may look forward to a successful 52-53. A brief instruction was given according to the state outline.

Mrs. Thos. Jett is chairman of the year book committee with Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. A. L. Peters and Mrs. D. M. Moore as co-chairmen.

The theme for the coming year will be "Course of Human Events." Members will receive their year book at the luncheon meeting, May 19.

After the business meeting, the president turned the meeting over to Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, program chairman. Mrs. Tidwell explained she was presenting two films for our information and pleasure.

The first film, entitled "Election Fraud," revealed many tricks and misinterpretations of truth, in order to extort money from Mr. Citizen by using warped measures against clean government. How cleverly they plant persons in crowded areas, who start conversation and speak loudly enough for all bystanders to hear the information they give and which will be passed on with each adding their own shading to these sordid stories. This is propaganda born and carried on. Also was shown how the Machine, as it was called, worked demanding a day's pay from the rich as well as from the poor; this done to raise ample campaign funds. Discrepancy in ballot, the usual paying for votes and how cleverly this was handled, all was made very clear. This film was indeed an informative piece of evidence in which we saw "Democracy on Trial."

The second film, "Why We Respect the Law," unfolded the story of a youth who, through bad example and possibly the wrong associates, was tempted to commit a theft. In this, a conscience began to awaken in the youth by the very lawyer he had selected to defend him. This honest man chose a very tangible argument to convince the youth of his wrong doings. He asked the youth to take off his shoes and hand them to him which the boy gave him, surprised at such request. Seeing that the lawyer meant to keep them, the youth demanded his property back, and here in a very convincing way, he learned why youth should respect every law. The explanation was made so clear to the boy that he understood why "Law is not made to regulate one and protect another," but all citizens, young and old should adhere to all laws.

If one could but follow this youth in life, we would surely find an upright citizen of "Tomorrow" fully aware that crime does not pay.

Mrs. Greenwell's home was beautiful with artistic flower arrangements of purple iris and day lilies. Those present were: Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. A. B. Myatt, Mrs. Thos. Jett, Mrs. R. L. Wood, Mrs. Irving J. Wolff, Mrs. F. L. Smith, Mrs. J. W. Murphy, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. D. M. Moore and the hostess.

CHILDREN ENJOY EASTER LUNCH

Shown above are a few of the students of St. Matthew's grammar and high school who were treated to a delightful Easter lunch at the school cafeteria. The event was sponsored by Mrs. Della Williamson, manager of the cafeteria.

St. Matthew's Students
Enjoy Easter Lunch

The students of St. Matthew's grammar and high school were treated to a very elaborate and colorful lunch on Wednesday, April 18, in the school cafeteria. "Aunt" Della Williamson, who has been in charge of the cafeteria for years, was the one responsible for the delightful Easter lunch. She was assisted by Mrs. Eva Brown, and the very capable colored staff of the cafeteria.

The windows and walls were backgrounds for gaily colored rabbits, chickens, and eggs. Each table was set with an Easter nest and small basket full of goodies in the center. The long counter displayed on top a large Easter basket in the center and a smaller one at each end. On the bottom of the counter where each plate is lined up for the children, Aunt Della had a huge grass nest filled with dozens of dyed eggs, and a few plastic rabbits and chickens. Each child took an egg from the nest as they passed.

The plates were attractively and brightly filled with either a pink or blue sandwich, jelly beans, a cup of either cherry or lime jello, a large cookie with colored-frosting, and a tiny cotton chicken atop each colored sandwich. Each grade was marched very orderly into the cafeteria in a single line, and each child took a plate lunch, dyed egg, and half pint of milk and passed on quietly to a table to enjoy this delightful, colorful Easter lunch.

"Aunt" Della said that better than 400 children are served the free lunch every day, and it was her own idea to fix such a colorful Easter lunch for their enjoyment. It is sure Aunt Della was amply rewarded for her efforts, by the smiles of delight and the quiet "thank you, Aunt Della" murmured from the lips of all the children.

Ruth Ann Boggs explained the various insignia and badges worn on the uniform. Patsy Cooper told of interesting trips the girls have taken, and Connie Wheeler described the work done in nature study. Give the little lady a hand

THIS ad is addressed to husbands — husbands who've yearned for the thrill of sitting behind a broad hood packed with horsepower — and the pride of rolling down the street in a car that tells the world, "Here's a man who knows the finest thing on wheels."

But husbands have wives. And wives have been known to say, "No big cars for me. They're too hard to handle."

Well, we have an answer for that one. It's a ROADMASTER with Buick's new Power Steering.† And Power Steering takes over any time the steering gets tough — works like a helping hand — reduces the effort of turning the wheel of a car at a standstill to about the same effort it takes to pick up a mink coat.

BUT out on the open highway — with a clear straight stretch before you — your hands still have command of the wheel — you can feel that sure, firm, easy and eager responsiveness that's a part of the fun of driving.

The rest of the fun is in something else that's new this year — the highest horsepower that a Buick Fireball Engine has ever delivered — and an Airpower carburetor that lets loose an extra reserve of power when needed, and still adds extra miles to your cruising range on each tankful of gas.

So we suggest a family demonstration. You'll both like the hushed and restful silence of this superbly able traveler. You'll like the harmonious beauty of its interior, and the deep and luxurious softness of its seats.

You'll like the velvet-gloved grip of its Wide-Band brakes, and the most capacious trunk in Buick history.

You'll like the smooth surge of Dynaflow Drive, and you'll like — but why waste time talking, when you could be finding out more than we can ever tell you? How about making a date to do that right now?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. White available optional at extra cost where available. †Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster only.

W. S. C. S. OF FIRST METHODIST CHURCH HAS APRIL MEETING

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church assembled recently for the April business session and program meeting.

During the hour of business, presided over by Mrs. Mike John, Jr., president, glowing reports from the State Conference were given by the delegates, Mrs. C. C. Lucky and Mrs. A. E. Allen, president-elect.

An impressive memorial was held for Mrs. T. D. Fortenberry, deceased member of the W.S.C.S. "Our Spiritual Heritage" was the theme of the inspirational devotional presented by Mrs. J. R. White.

Following the scripture reading and hymn "This is My Father's World", Mrs. Charles Price, chairman of Circle 10, conducted the program of the afternoon. "Humanizing Labor Relations" was the subject presented to the Woman's Society with a purpose of gaining a better understanding of the problems of industrial relations and discovering opportunities for Christian Women and the Christian Church to improve working conditions and relationships.

The spring meditation was a view of how Christianity looks upon work.

Mrs. Price said "The way people make their living may have more effect on their minds and spirits than the way they spend their leisure. All useful employment is sacred - all service ranks the same with God - work has a nobler purpose than mere livelihood when it is done "for the joy of working and as a service rendered to God." It builds fellowship and we become indeed fellow workers for God." The speaker briefly summarized the meaning of labor, the reason for labor unions and the question of the right of labor to organize.

Also speaking on the afternoon's program was Mrs. W. M. Inabnet, who outlined the trend in law regarding strikes and the proposals for preserving industrial peace. She suggested that Christian Women become better informed on this matter of labor relations in order to form wholesome public opinion and, as consumers, concern themselves with conditions under which the goods bought are produced and marketed, and as investors, give attention to policies of companies dealt with financially, as to whether the enterprise is run in a way that makes for social justice and industrial peace.

Mrs. C. E. McKenzie closed the program with very interesting remarks on other social issues of concern to Christians.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.

Answer To Question No. 1
1. I think every wife should promote her husband's career, unless he be a Milquetoast whose chief ambition is to have his wife feed him with a spoon. But wives of men of ambition and promise should do their best to promote their Masters' careers. If wives do this, husbands will be less likely to become domineering and more likely to become "regular fellows."

Answer To Question No. 2
2. Yes, many, nine intelligence had personality tests were given during World War II to 10,000,000 young men. One ballroom out of 11 had more brains than the average lawyer, although lawyers scored near the top. The top four - fourth of the truck drivers scored higher than the lowest ones. These tests show that thousands of our boys and girls set their own jobs below their real brains.

Answer To Question No. 3
3. Yes, and yes. Josephine H. is a national magazine.

zine, says don't try to help them directly with their problems, because the present methods are so different from the ones you used - you only confuse them. Don't solve their problems for them - this breeds dishonesty. However, show your interest by helping them find a separate room or corner, and any needed equipment. This is a great inducement to get them started and to develop a set time for work.

STATE WELFARE ROLLS LOWERED

8,000 Taken Off Lists; Most Due To Death; 31 Over Age 100

BATON ROUGE, La., April 19. - Nearly eight thousand recipients of old age assistance have been removed from lists of the Louisiana department of public welfare during the year ending March 31, A. A. Fredericks, commissioner, announced Saturday.

Most of the removals were because of death.

"Thirty - one of the old people we were taking care of died after the age of 100 years," Mr. Fredericks said. "One lived to be 111 years old. The median age of the old people involved was 77 years."

"Most of us are inclined to forget that the 65 year oldster is but a beginner, a member of the freshman class. The people in the old age category have for the most part made their contributions to society and are now entitled to a rest, although some continue to do small tasks."

The department of welfare report reveals that 514 file closures were those of recipients above 90 years of age and 2433 were in their 80s. The total number of old age recipients is 118,947 average for the last year. Total closures were 7929.

HIS EDUCATION IS PLANNED!

The light that shines in this proud mother and father's eyes is more beautiful than the gleam of the rarest jewel or the radiance of the brightest star.

It mirrors the mystery and glory of life, the hopes and faith and dreams of parenthood. It suffuses their faces with the joy of possession and the consciousness of being part of the great unbroken chain of human existence.

All true parents want their children to make the best of life; to avoid its pitfalls, to master its obstacles, to achieve its success. They want them to be good citizens and just and honorable men and women.

The little boy in the picture will be reared with the tenderest of care and will be taught knowledges and skills as he grows in years and in understanding. His education is planned, right on through college. He has a bright future in this world.

WHAT ABOUT HIS SOUL!

Has any planning been done for his soul? Where will he spend eternity? To a great extent it will depend upon the guidance his parents give him in early life. Religious obligations cannot be met by proxy. Coming near to God thru worship in His Holy places cannot be attained by one member of the family for the others. Have your children been taught the meaning of Sunday? Do they understand the need for regular attendance at Sunday School and Church Services? Always remember, the churches of your community have the only answer to your deeper personal needs. If you are not a regular church goer . . . start now. Take the whole family as an affectionate unit to Church and Sunday School.

KENNON REGIME OUT TO LURE PLANTS SOUTH

BATON ROUGE, La. — The next Louisiana administration plans to go up North to attract its industries to this "kindly, benign climate." Appeal Judge Robert Kennon, who will be inaugurated as governor on May 13, told a testimonial banquet in his honor last night that "we're fixing to go up there" to seek the industries "and they can't stop us."

"They come down here during Mardi Gras and the Sugar Bowl and see the kindly, benign climate here," Kennon said. "And they're going to move industries out of the unkindly climate up there."

To add to the attraction, Kennon said, will be a "shiny, nice, safe, reliable, confident sort of government that we're going to have in Louisiana."

Kennon said that with "real, genuine civil service, we'll take around $200 million of the state's spending out of partisan politics."

Proposals of the Louisiana Civil Service League were discussed League's president and secretary, Charles Dunbar and Joseph Lallande. The discussion arose over the League's suggestion to have a civil service system which would allow the state commission to have a hand in selecting some city civil service commissioners. Later, Edwin Hunter, Kennon's legislative lieutenant, said the administration was "100 per cent for the League's civil service proposals and would support them actively."

The dinner, sponsored by the Nicholson Post of the American Legion, also honored other members of the new administration.

ST. MATTHEW'S ACTING HOST

Will Entertain Jr. C. D. A. Members At End Of Week

St. Matthew's School will be hostess on the week end of April 27, to approximately fifty young Catholic Daughters of America coming from all sections of Louisiana for the state convention that will be in session here at that time. The Socialists of the school in cooperation with the housing chairman, Miss Leona Biggar, is making preparation for the lodging of these young members, and also they are preparing entertainment for them during their visit to Monroe. Miss Patricia Nicoline Danna is Socialist chairman at St. Matthew's for this event.

The school's annual The Mathman is just about ready for shipment to the publisher. The staff this year decided on a summer delivery, so that they might offer more pictures associated with senior week activities, graduation, etc. The book, therefore, will be delivered to the school in the latter part of August, according to the editor, Miss Rosina Lisotta.

Sister Mary Patricia, D. C., the principal of St. Matthew's High School has just returned from a most stimulating convention of the National Catholic Education Association held in Kansas City, Mo.

The English classes are utilizing the showing of the great film, Quo Vadis, by making a concentrated study of the history, story and significance — that surrounds this valuable work of Sienkiewicz. Students and faculty are planning on seeing the picture, possibly even more than one time in order to achieve a thorough study of this historical novel.

Slick Tricks

If you have several good nylon hose, all different colors, try this: Put hose in a boiler, cover with water and boil for one hour. The first half hour they give up their color, the second half hour they absorb the color. All take on the same color regardless of the shade they were before boiling. Rinse thoroughly. Warning — Don't get interested in the yard and forget the pot and let it boil dry.

Ben and Jean Patterson (611 Joseph street, Monroe) solved their problem of a cabinet to hold the machine, using an old oak chest of drawers. The top holds the machine, there is a spool drawer and a drawer for holding other sewing. The Pattersons did a good job on their old chest. It's a very attractive piece of furniture. They are also very nice people and will be glad to show you their cabinet and give you any tips you need or making one.

Congratulations 4-H'ers

May Lou Meachum, president of Calhoun Senior 4-H Club, tried her way to national fame, using our good old Louisiana yam. Let's go back to last summer. The seven-year old club member won first place in the state contests on use of vegetables. This entitled her to an all expense trip to Cleveland, O. in December. Here she competed against 4-H members from all parts of the United States. Mary Lou won a place on the national vegetable growers board for planning the convention in New York in December. The young lady left for Columbus last Thursday. She said, "I'm looking forward to this trip, but more than anything I'm proud of winning an all expense trip to New York in December. That's a dream come true." Mary Lou is the only girl from the south to make these trips. Again a 4-H Club member has brought honor to Louisiana and to Ouachita Parish.

Garden News

If you've tried planting ranunculus you probably found them not too satisfactory, rather temperamental, like tulips. If you drive by Mrs. Patty Carr's house (108 Bell avenue, Monroe) you'll resolve to try again next fall. Her's are a rainbow of color. Mrs. Carr says the bulbs need to be planted in a loose, loamy, well drained soil. I'm sure she'll be glad to give you any other tips she's learned about the bulbs. We do know they don't come back very well year after year. Like tulips, if you want a good showing, you'll have to plant bulbs each fall.

The tulip trees are in bloom! But not in riotous bloom like they were last year. Very few flowers have bloomed as usual, though. Last April when I saw Peggy Garrett's tree in full bloom, I could hardly see the leaves for the flowers. This year you can hardly find the flowers. . . . But when you do spot them — you're dazzled. Peggy lives at 1635 North Second street, Monroe. The tree is in her front yard, close to the drive way between 1608 and 1608, the Braun home. The blooms are very showy in an arrangement. Peggy made an Easter corsage for Ola Mae Pennington using one of the tulip tree blooms. Let California rave about her orchids — I'll take Ouachita Parish tulip tree blooms for mine.

Good-by — See you next Sunday in this same column.

P. S. Just received a letter from Baton Rouge saying the blooms in the rose test plots will be at their best through the week of April 20. There will be someone on duty to show visitors around. Dr. Kim — branch is especially anxious for visitors to notice what good control they are getting for leaf spot by using Dithane Z 78 as a spray. You're invited to visit the rose test plot in Baton Rouge this week.

BUT CAPTAIN ROOS ABRUPTLY DRAGS HIM AWAY, LEAVING KARA TO NURSE HER BROTHER. VAINLY FLASH TRIES TO MAKE THE HEEDLESS RHEAN GIANT UNDERSTAND THE PERIL OF SMALLPOX'S CONTAGION!

IMPATIENT TO GET ON WITH THE TASK OF PRYING FROM FLASH THE SECRETS OF THE EARTH'S DEFENSES, ROOG BRINGS THE CAPTIVE EARTHMAN BEFORE RHEA'S KING. FLASH IS SHOVED INTO A SEAT UNDER A STRANGE MACHINE. IT'S A BRAIN-WAVE RECORDER!

ON ONE WALL A SPACE-SCANNER IS IN OPERATION, AND FLASH RECOILS IN ALARM AS THE SCREEN SHOWS A RHEAN SPACE ARMADA RISING TO BATTLE THE SMALL FLEET OF ROCKETS APPROACHING FROM THE EARTH.

THE RHEANS FEVERISHLY TWIRL THE DIALS OF THE BRAIN-WAVE MACHINE, TRYING TO DRAW FROM FLASH INFORMATION ABOUT THE SPEED AND ARMAMENT OF THE EARTH'S ROCKETS. AS FLASH STEELS HIMSELF TO AVOID REVEALING THE SECRETS IN HIS MIND, HIS EYES ARE GLUED TO THE SPACE-SCREEN ON WHICH IS DEPICTED THE TITANIC BATTLE THAT HAS BEEN JOINED BETWEEN THE OUT-NUMBERED EARTHSHIPS AND RHEA'S POWERFUL ARMADA!
